Recent insights into perceptual and motor skill learning (The computational and neural processes underlying perceptual and motor skill learning) Lior Shmuelof, John W Krakauer, 2015-03-18 Improvements in task performance following practice can occur as a result of changes in distinct cognitive and neural processes In some cases we can improve our performance by selecting a more successful behavior that is already part of our available repertoire Skill learning on the other hand refers to a slower process that results in improving the ability to perform a behavior i.e. it involves the acquisition of a behavior that was not available to the controller before training Skill learning can take place both in the sensory and in the motor domains Sensory skill acquisition in perceptual learning tasks is measured by improvements in sensory acuity through practice induced changes in the sensitivity of relevant neural networks Motor skill is harder to define as the term is used whenever a motor learning behavior improves along some dimension Nevertheless we have recently argued that as in perceptual learning acuity is an integral component in motor skill learning In this special topic we set out to integrate experimental and theoretical work on perceptual and motor skill learning and to stimulate a discussion regarding the similarities and differences between these two kinds of learning

Viruses Threatening Stable Production of Cereal Crops Nobuhiro Suzuki, Takahide Sasaya, Il-Ryong Choi, 2015-07-17 Cereal crops such as maize wheat and rice account for a majority of biomass produced globally in agriculture Continuous economic and population growth especially in developing countries accompanied more intensive production of cereal crops to meet increasing demands for them as main staple foods and livestock feeds However imbalance between production and consumption of cereal crops which is inevitably reflected as their higher market prices is becoming palpable in recent years Stable production of cereal crops has been threatened by various abiotic and biotic stresses One of the most threatening constraints is virus diseases Especially intensification of cereal crop production is often achieved by monoculture of a popular crop variety in a wide area Such agroecosystems with low biodiversity is usually more conducive to biotic stresses and may result in the outbreaks of existing and emerging cereal viruses Numerous reports on incidences of various virus diseases of cereal crops attested that viruses have been a long standing obstacle eroding yields of cereal crops worldwide Despite of the evident economic losses incurred by virus disease of cereal crops the progress in basic research on virus species causing major diseases of cereal crops lagged behind compared to that carried out for viruses that can infect dicotyledonous plants This was partially due to the lack of ideal experimental systems to investigate the interaction between viruses and monocotyledonous crops For example inoculation of many viruses to cereal plants still requires tedious manipulation of vector organisms and reverse genetic systems are not available for many cereal viruses However application of latest molecular biology technologies has led to significant advance in cereal virology recently transient gene expression systems through particle bombardment and agroinfiltration have been exploited to examine the functions of cereal virus proteins Cell culture systems of vector insects enabled to investigate the molecular interactions between cereal viruses and insect vectors Furthermore RNAi technologies for vector insects and monocotyledonous plants facilitated identification of specific host and viral factors involved in viral replication and transmission cycles Also accumulating information on the genome sequences of cereal crop species has been simplifying the roadmap to pinpoint resistance genes against cereal viruses The objective of this research topic is to provide and share the information which can contribute to advances in cereal virology by covering recent progresses in areas such as 1 characterization of emerging viruses 2 analyses of genetic and biological diversities within particular viruses 3 development of experimental systems applicable to cereal viruses 4 elucidation of the molecular interactions among viruses vector organisms and host plants 5 identification of traits and genes linked to virus resistance in cereal crops 6 development of novel genetic approaches for virus resistance and 7 assessment of epidemiological factors affecting the incidences of cereal virus diseases Synergistic integration of ideas from such areas under this research topic should help to formulate practical alternatives to the current management options for virus diseases in cereal crops

Civil Protection and Domestic Security in Contemporary Hybrid Warfare Wojciech Wróblewski, Michał Wiśniewski, Jędrzej Bieniasz, 2025-05-22 Civil

Protection and Domestic Security in Contemporary Hybrid Warfare presents a comprehensive approach to civil protection and domestic security in contemporary hybrid armed conflict. Hybrid warfare encompasses a number of dimensions such as military, political, psychological, cognitive, space, social, economic, informational, or technological. Current conflicts show that hybrid warfare, despite regional differences, is based on a common operational framework that combines conventional and unconventional tactics targeting not only military structures but also largely targeting civilians and societies. All this makes threats more diffuse, subtle, and difficult to predict. They also often take the form of networked actions and have cascading effects in which they can produce complex secondary effects affecting a range of spheres of society and key infrastructure. In response to this spectrum of threats, individual states need to adapt their security and civil protection systems to the type of threat involved. However, most existing solutions are fragmented, resulting in a reduced ability to coordinate and adequately prepare civilians for hybrid threat conditions. Given these challenges, the book establishes a common language that helps shape coherent risk management and protective mechanisms in dealing with hybrid attacks. It also points in a new direction in ensuring the reliability of information provided to civilians, which is crucial in a hybrid war environment where disinformation is used as one of the main tools of destabilisation. Drawing on theoretical knowledge and practical experiences from around the world, the book provides tools to effectively respond to existing and future conflicts and hybrid wars. Above and beyond this, bridging the gap between concrete knowledge of hybrid warfare and operational needs, this book explores how public administrations, public services, NGOs, local communities, and other actors play a key role in protecting the population during such non-traditional armed conflicts.

Civil Protection and Domestic Security in Contemporary Hybrid Warfare is a vital resource to government and civilian specialists responsible for population security and protection, helping them and their civilian populations to strategise and, oftentimes, to individually mitigate the risk of loss of life or health, as has been demonstrated in the Russia-Ukraine conflict.

On Record Schalk van der Merwe, 2017-07-12

Popular Afrikaans music artists have done well in post-apartheid South Africa and enjoy the enthusiastic support of loyal fans. This support is fuelled by a complex set of emotions linked to being Afrikaans in a culturally pluralistic society. In On Record, van der Merwe investigates the interplay between popular music and the unfolding of Afrikaans culture and politics from the start of the twentieth century to the present. It includes a search for the earliest recorded Afrikaans songs and documents subsequent phases of music development that reflect the agency of ordinary individuals, artists, and listeners against a background of fundamental societal and political change. It regards both the music mainstream and the alternative and reveals, among other things, historical cases of compliance and resistance regarding the master narrative of Afrikaner nationalist ideology, the attempts by cultural entrepreneurs to establish authority over popular Afrikaans culture, class tension, lasting racial exclusivity, protest and censorship, and the post-apartheid invocation of Afrikaner nostalgia and white victimhood. Ultimately, On Record provides an uninterrupted account and a critique of the entire history of recorded popular Afrikaans music up to the present Geological Survey Water-supply Paper, 1960 Human Rights Christian Tomuschat, 2014 This third edition of Human Rights Between Idealism and Realism presents human rights in action focusing on their effectiveness as legal tools designed to benefit human beings By combining conceptual analysis with an emphasis on procedures and mechanisms of implementation this volume provides a multidimensional overview of human rights After examining briefly the history of human rights the author analyses the intellectual framework that forms the basis of their legitimacy In particular he covers the concept of universality and the widely used model that classifies human rights into clusters of different generations In this edition the author brings together the fundamental aspects of human rights law addressing human dignity as the ethical foundation of human rights the principle of equality and non discrimination as the essence of any culture of human rights the protections against racial discrimination and discrimination against women and assesses the individual as a subject of international law The volume then moves on to assess the activities of the political institutions of the United Nations the expert bodies established by the relevant treaties and the international tribunals specifically entrusted at the regional level with protecting human rights This edition also includes specific analysis of the actions mandated by the UN Security Council against Libya in 2011 It also includes greater coverage of the jurisprudence of the Inter American Court of Human Rights and the African Commission on Human and Peoples Rights The author explains how and why the classical array of politically inspired informal devices has been enriched by the addition of international criminal procedures and by endeavours to introduce civil suits against alleged individual violators of human rights Finally the volume is rounded off by a consideration of the importance of humanitarian law as an instrument for the protection of human life and dignity and an exploration of the future of human rights Conflict Refugees Christel Querton, 2023-08-10 Based on a systematic and empirical comparative study of six European Union countries Christel Querton explores judicial decision making in the context of persons fleeing armed conflicts in the EU Addressing and redressing misconceptions about the relevance of the Refugee Convention this book demonstrates how appellate authorities across the EU approach situations of armed conflict predominantly through outdated understandings of warfare and territoriality Thus they apply a higher standard of proof than is warranted by international refugee law Adopting a gender perspective Querton also shows how appellate authorities fail to acknowledge the gender differentiated impact of armed conflicts Drawing from gender and security studies this book proposes an original conceptual framework which supported by existing international legal standards reframes the definition of refugee and better reflects the reality of violence in modern day conflicts In doing so it re asserts the Refugee Convention as the cornerstone of international protection SEC Docket United States.
