Conservation and Restoration of Tropical Dry Forests Bhadouria, Rahul, Tripathi, Sachchidanand, Srivastava, Pratap, Singh, Pardeep, 2019-09-27 Tropical dry forests are the most exploited and endangered ecosystems in the world. A combination of climatic and human factors often reduce these forests to patches of dry scrubs or savannas. Because these ecosystems experience a more arduous and less anticipated environment, they are more prone to environmental stress as plant communities are developed. Therefore, urgent research is necessary to understand both the detrimental issues and problem-solving approaches to conserving these important forests. The Handbook of Research on the Conservation and Restoration of Tropical Dry Forests is a pivotal reference source that combines theory and practice on the current trends and issues in this important ecological subject and discusses future challenges towards conservation strategies of these tropical dry forests. While highlighting topics such as forest management, natural regeneration, and silviculture, this publication examines the anthropogenic impacts on tropical dry forests and the necessity to rebuild their ecosystems. This book is ideally designed for state forest agency professionals, resource managers, non-governmental organization agents, ecologists, botanists, environmentalists, students, and researchers seeking current research on the threats to these forests.

Tree Plantation Extractivism in Chile Alejandro Mora-Motta, 2024-03-29 This book examines how extractivism transforms territories and affects the well-being of rural people, drawing on in-depth fieldwork conducted on tree plantations in Chile. The book argues that pine and eucalyptus monoculture plantations in southern Chile are a form of extractivism representing a mode of nature appropriation that captures large amounts of natural resources to produce wooden-based raw materials with little processing and an export oriented focus The book discusses the nexus of extractivism territorial transformations well being and emerging resistances using a participatory action research methodological approach in the Region of Los R os southern Chile The findings show how the configuration of an extractivist logging enclave generated a substantial and irrevocable reordering of human nature relations resulting in the territorial and ontological occupation of rural places that disrupted the fundamental human needs of peasants and indigenous people The book maintains that Chile s green growth development approach does not challenge the consolidated tree plantation enclave controlled by large multinationals Instead green growth legitimises the extractivist logic The book draws parallels with other countries and regions to contribute to wider debates surrounding these topics This book will be of great interest to students and scholars of the extractive industries development studies political ecology and natural resource governance Stock Exchange Official Yearbook, 1991-1992 ,1992
