Crisis and Class War in Egypt Sean F. McMahon, 2016-10-15 In 2011 capital s crisis erupted in Egyptian society This eruption and subsequent politics have been misrepresented as revolutionary as the working class was and is increasingly so devalued and disempowered In Crisis and Class War in Egypt Sean F McMahon critically analyses Egypt s recent political history He argues that the so called revolution was the appearance of capital s destruction of the value of the Egyptian working class and an existential crisis for capital In response productive capital in the form of the military used disposed of and replaced its junior partners in governing first the predatory capital of the Mubarak state with the commodity capital of the Muslim Brotherhood and then commodity capital with the finance capital of the Gulf Cooperation Council These reconfigurations have been expressed in all manner of reactionary governmental arrangements including constitutions legislation and currency reform Extending today s analysis into the near future McMahon sees the war of Egyptian society intensifying and increasingly violent lives for Egyptian workers

Taking Chances Karen M. O'Neill, Daniel J. Van Abs, 2016-06-03 Humanity is deeply committed to living along the world s shores but a catastrophic storm like Sandy which took hundreds of lives and caused many billions of dollars in damages shines a bright light at how costly and vulnerable life on a shoreline can be Taking Chances offers a wide ranging exploration of the diverse challenges of Sandy and asks if this massive event will really change how coastal living and development is managed Bringing together leading researchers including biologists urban planners utilities experts and climatologists among others Taking Chances illuminates reactions to the dangers revealed by Sandy Focusing on New Jersey New York and other hard hit areas the contributors explore whether Hurricane Sandy has indeed transformed our perceptions of coastal hazards if we have made radically new plans in response to Sandy and what we think should be done over the long run to improve coastal resilience Surprisingly one essay notes that while a large majority of New Jerseyans identified Sandy with climate change and favored carefully assessing the likelihood of damage from future storms before rebuilding the Shore their political leaders quickly poured millions into reconstruction Indeed much here is disquieting One contributor points out that investors scared off from further investments on the shore are quickly replaced by new investors sustaining or increasing the overall human exposure to risk Likewise a study of the Gowanus Canal area of Brooklyn shows that even after Sandy swamped the area with toxic flood waters plans to convert abandoned industrial lots around the canal into high density condominiums went on undeterred By contrast utilities emergency officials and others who routinely make long term plans have changed operations in response to the storm and provide examples of adaptation in the face of climate change Will Sandy be a tipping point in coastal policy debates or simply dismissed as a once in a century anomaly This thought provoking collection of essays in Taking Chances makes an important contribution to this debate Seeing the City Digitally Gillian Rose,2025-10-01 This book explores what s happening to ways of seeing urban spaces in the contemporary moment when so many of the technologies through which cities are visualised are digital Cities have always been pictured in many media and for many different purposes This edited collection explores how that picturing is changing in an era of digital visual culture Analogue visual technologies like film cameras were understood as creating some sort of a trace of the real city Digital visual technologies in contrast harvest and process digital data to create images that are constantly refreshed modified and circulated Each of the chapters in this volume examines a different example of how this processual visibility is reconfiguring the spatial and temporal organisation of urban life
