How the New Deal Built Florida Tourism David J. Nelson, 2019-04-11 Florida Historical Society Rembert Patrick Award Florida Book Awards Silver Medal for Florida Nonfiction Countering the conventional narrative that Florida's tourism industry suffered during the Great Depression this book shows that the 1930s were in reality the starting point for much that characterizes modern Florida's tourism David Nelson argues that state and federal government programs designed to reboot the economy during this decade are crucial to understanding the state today Nelson examines the impact of three connected initiatives the federal New Deal its Civilian Conservation Corps program CCC and the CCC's creation of the Florida Park Service He reveals that the CCC designed state parks to reinforce the popular image of Florida as a tropical exotic and safe paradise The CCC often removed native flora and fauna introduced exotic species and created artificial landscapes that were then presented as natural Nelson discusses how Florida business leaders benefitted from federally funded development and the ways residents and business owners rejected or supported the commercialization and shifting cultural identity of their state A detailed look at a unique era in which the state government sponsored the tourism industry helped commodify natural resources and boosted mythical ideas of the Real Florida that endure today this book makes the case that the creation of the Florida Park Service is the story of modern Florida

The Gentrification of Nightlife and the Right to the City Laam Hae,2012 In The Gentrification of Nightlife and the Right to the City Hae explores how nightlife in New York City long associated with various subcultures of social dancing has been recently transformed as the city has undergone the gentrification of its space and the post industrialization of its economy and society This book offers a detailed analysis of the conflicts emerging between newly transplanted middle class populations and different sectors of nightlife actors and how these conflicts have led the NYC government to enforce Quality of Life policing over nightlife businesses In particular it provides a deep investigation of the zoning regulations that the municipal government has employed to control where certain types of nightlife can or cannot be located Hae demonstrates the ways in which these struggles over nightlife have led to the gentrification of nightlife while infringing on urban inhabitants rights of access to spaces of diverse urban subcultures their right to the city The author also connects these struggles to the widely documented phenomenon of the increasing militarization of social life and space in contemporary cities and the right to the city movements that have emerged in response The story presented here involves dynamic and often contradictory interactions between different anti pro nightlife actors illustrating what actually existing gentrification and post industrialization looks like and providing an urgent example for experts in related fields to consider as part of a re theorization of gentrification and post industrialization

Imagining the Tropics Elizabeth S. Manley,Elizabeth Manley,2025-05-13 Imagining the Tropics is a history of the development of tourism in the Caribbean from the 1910s through the 1970s that focuses on the ways women s labors of hospitality writing and advocacy built the industry and its ubiquitous imagery of tropical island relaxation escape and romance By examining a range of sources engaging an array of women protagonists and looking broadly across multiple Caribbean island states including Jamaica Cuba the Bahamas Barbados the Dominican Republic Haiti Puerto Rico Trinidad and Tobago and the U S and British Virgin Islands it seeks to understand how the region came to be sold as a romantic escape from the troubles of the modern world By putting women at the center of Caribbean tourism history as both its ambassadors and objects of desire it seeks to explain some of the complicated contradictions that plague the business of pleasure but also to point toward ways of building alternative models to its present and past extractive realities

Official Gazette Philippines,1990

Remaking the Rust Belt Tracy Neumann,2016-05-26 Cities in the North Atlantic coal and steel belt embodied industrial power in the early twentieth century but by the 1970s their economic and political might had been significantly diminished by newly industrializing regions in the Global South This was not simply a North American phenomenon the precipitous decline of mature steel centers like Pittsburgh Pennsylvania and Hamilton Ontario was a bellwether for similar cities around the world Contemporary narratives of the decline of basic industry on both sides of the Atlantic make the postindustrial transformation of old manufacturing centers seem inevitable the product of natural business cycles and neutral market forces In Remaking the Rust Belt Tracy Neumann tells a different story one in which local political and business elites drawing on a limited set of internationally circulating redevelopment models pursued postindustrial urban visions They hired the same consulting firms shared ideas about urban revitalization on study tours at conferences and in the pages of professional journals and began to plan cities oriented around services rather than manufacturing all well in advance of the economic malaise of the 1970s While postindustrialism remade cities it came with high costs In following this strategy public officials sacrificed the well being of large portions of their populations Remaking the Rust Belt recounts how local leaders throughout the Rust Belt created the jobs services leisure activities and cultural institutions that they believed would attract younger educated middle class professionals In the process they abandoned social democratic goals and widened and deepened economic inequality among urban residents
