Research for Educational Change Jill Adler, Anna Sfard, 2016-06-17 Research for Educational Change presents ways in which educational research can fulfil its commitments to educational practice Focussing its discussion within the context of mathematics education it argues that while research generated insights can have beneficial effects on learning and teaching the question of how these effects are to be generated and sustained is far from evident The question of how to turn research into educational improvement is discussed here in the context of learning and teaching hindered by poverty and social injustice In the first part of the book four teams of researchers use different methodologies while analysing the same corpus of data collected in a South African mathematics classroom In the second part each of these teams makes a specific proposal about what can be done and how so that its research generated insights have a tangible beneficial impact on what is happening in mathematical classrooms Combining two discourses that of researchers speaking to one another and that of researchers communicating their insights to those responsible for educational practice the book deals with the perennial question of communication between those who study educational processes and those who are directly responsible for teacher education educational research and classroom practices This book will be key reading for postgraduates researchers and academics in education and particularly in the areas of mathematics education education research teacher education and classroom practice It will also appeal to teacher educators practitioners and undergraduate students interested in educational research

International Perspectives on Mathematics Curriculum Denisse R Thompson, Mary Ann Huntley, Christine Suurtamm, 2018-01-01 Curriculum can be defined in a variety of ways It might be viewed as a body of knowledge a product or a process Curricula can differ as they are conceptualized from various theoretical perspectives to address the needs of teachers students and the context of schooling One reason to study curriculum is to reveal the expectations processes and outcomes of students school learning experiences that are situated in different cultural and system contexts further studies of curriculum practices and changes are much needed to help ensure the success of educational reforms in the different cultural and system contexts Kulm Li 2009 p 709 This volume highlights international perspectives on curriculum and aims to broaden the wider mathematics education community's understandings of mathematics curriculum through viewing a variety of ways that curricula are developed understood and implemented in different jurisdictions countries Within this volume we define curriculum broadly as the set of mathematics standards or outcomes the messages inherent in mathematics curriculum documents and resources how these standards are understood by a variety of stakeholders and how they are enacted in classrooms The focus is on the written implied and enacted curriculum in various educational settings throughout the world Improving Primary Mathematics Education, Teaching and Learning Mellony Graven, Hamsa Venkat, 2017-01-19 This book focuses on how to improve the teaching and learning of primary level mathematics education within resource constrained contexts It builds on two large numeracy projects within South Africa which speak to broader global concerns and highlight how research and development not only enables one to meet ethical imperatives but also explore how further interventions can be developed Teacher and research communities must work together to create mutually beneficial relationships and establish a cohesive understanding of the requirements of primary mathematics education Nonlocal Gravity Bahram Mashhoon, 2017 Relativity theory assumes locality without accounting for the observer's past history This work introduces nonlocality or history dependence into relativity theory Inertia and gravitation are deeply tied suggesting gravity may be nonlocal The gravitational memory of past events must then be taken into account Accountability in education: meeting our commitments UNESCO, 2017-10-30 The second edition of the Global Education Monitoring Report GEM Report presents the latest evidence on global progress towards the education targets of the UN Sustainable Development Goals With hundreds of millions of people still not going to school and many not achieving minimum skills at school it is clear education systems are off track to achieve global goals The marginalized currently bear the most consequences but also stand to benefit the most if policy makers pay sufficient attention to their needs Faced with these challenges along with tight budgets and increased emphasis on results oriented value for money countries are searching for solutions Increased accountability often tops the list The 2017 8 GEM Report shows the entire array of approaches to accountability in education It ranges from countries unused to the concept where violations of the right to education go unchallenged to countries where accountability has become an end in itself instead of a means to inclusive equitable and high quality education and lifelong learning for all The report emphasizes that education is a shared responsibility While governments have primary responsibility all actors schools teachers parents students international organizations private sector providers civil society and the media 0 3 have a role in improving education systems The report emphasized the importance of transparency and availability of information but urges caution in how data are used It makes the case for avoiding accountability systems with a disproportionate focus on narrowly defined results and punitive sanctions In an era of multiple accountability tools the report provides clear evidence on those that are working and those that are not Back cover
