This edited volume presents innovative current research in the field of Science Education. The chapters deal with a wide variety of topics and research approaches conducted in a range of contexts and settings. Together they make a strong contribution to knowledge on science teaching and learning. The book consists of selected presentations from the 12th European Science Education Research Association ESERA Conference held in Dublin, Ireland, from 21st to 25th August 2017. The ESERA community is made up of professionals with diverse disciplinary backgrounds from natural sciences to social sciences. This diversity enables a rich understanding of cognitive and affective aspects of science teaching and learning. The studies in this book will stimulate discussion and interest in finding new ways of implementing and researching science education for the future. The twenty-two chapters in this book are presented in four parts highlighting innovative approaches to school science, emerging identities in science education, approaches to developing learning and competence progressions, and ways of enhancing science teacher education. This collection of studies showcases current research orientations in science education and is of interest to science teachers, teacher educators, and science education researchers around the world with a commitment to bridging research and practice in science teaching and learning.

Digital Learning and Teaching in Chemistry Yehudit Dori, Courtney Ngai, Gabriela Sztajnberg, 2023-07-12. Education is always evolving and most recently has shifted to increased online or remote learning. Digital Learning and Teaching in Chemistry compiles the established and emerging trends in this field specifically within the context of learning and teaching in chemistry. This book shares insights about five major themes: best practices for teaching and learning digitally; digital learning platforms; virtual visualisation and laboratory to promote learning in science; digital assessment and building communities of learners and educators. The authors are chemistry instructors and researchers from nine countries contributing an international perspective on digital learning and teaching in chemistry. While the chapters in this book span a wide variety of topics, as a whole they focus on using technology and digital platforms as a method for supporting inclusive and meaningful learning. The best practices and recommendations shared by the authors are highly relevant for modern chemistry education as teaching and learning through digital methods is likely to persist. Furthermore, teaching chemistry digitally has the potential to bring greater equity to the field of chemistry education in terms of who has access to quality learning, and this book will contribute to that goal. This book will be essential reading for those working in chemical education and teaching.

Yehudit Judy Dori is internationally recognised, formerly Dean of the Faculty of Education of Science and Technology at the Technion Israel Institute of Technology and won the 2020 NARST Distinguished Contributions to Science Education through Research Award (DCRA) for her exceptional research contributions.
