needs only a semester's background in calculus. Ideas from linear algebra and partial differential equations that are most useful to the life sciences are introduced as needed and in the context of life science applications are drawn from real published papers. It also teaches students how to recognize when differential equations can help focus research. A course taught with this book can replace the standard course in multivariable calculus that is more usually suited to engineers and physicists.

Corpus-based Analyses of the Problem-solution Pattern Lynne Flowerdew, 2008 This book reports research on the Problem Solution rhetorical pattern which has to date received very little attention in corpus based studies. Insights from genre analysis and systemic functional grammar are also applied to the analysis of the Problem Solution pattern, thus moving towards a more multi-faceted analysis of corpus data. The pattern is investigated in two specialized corpora of technically oriented report writing: a professional corpus and a student corpus, using a key word and key key word analysis. Phraseological analyses of key words in both corpora are presented. Data show that students writing lacks a range of lexicogrammatical patternings for expressing the Problem and Solution elements of the pattern. The book concludes with some pedagogic implications and applications of the findings. Suggested concordancing activities are discussed within the context of key issues in the field of data driven learning.
