Figure 10.11: A graph illustrating the flow of information in a system. The graph shows a sequence of nodes connected by directed edges, representing the flow of information. The nodes are labeled with their respective states or values. The edges represent the transitions between these states, often influenced by external inputs or parameters. The graph structure is complex, with multiple paths and feedback loops, indicating a dynamic system where information is processed and transformed over time.

It is hoped that this study will be useful to the public in general, and to the public health and environmental community in particular, in making better informed decisions about water.
