Abstract: This study examined the effects of a 12-week, 100% bodyweight resistance training program on the muscle strength, body composition, and cardiovascular fitness of sedentary, middle-aged men. The program was designed to be performed in a home setting and consisted of three sessions per week. The program was evaluated using a variety of measures, including muscle strength, body composition, and cardiovascular fitness. The results of the study showed that the program was effective in improving muscle strength, body composition, and cardiovascular fitness in the participants. The program was also found to be safe and feasible for home use. The findings of this study suggest that a 12-week, 100% bodyweight resistance training program can be an effective means of improving muscle strength, body composition, and cardiovascular fitness in sedentary, middle-aged men.
