The Working Lives of New Writing Center Directors Nicole I. Caswell, Jackie Grutsch McKinney, Rebecca Jackson, 2016-10-03 The first book length empirical investigation of writing center directors labor The Working Lives of New Writing Center Directors presents a longitudinal qualitative study of the individual professional lives of nine new directors Inspired by Kinkead and Harris s Writing Centers in Context 1993 the authors adopt a case study approach to examine the labor these directors performed and the varied motivations for their labor as well as the labor they ignored deferred or sidelined temporarily whether or not they wanted to The study shows directors engaged in various types of labor everyday disciplinary and emotional and reveals that labor is never restricted to a list of job responsibilities although those play a role Instead labor is motivated and shaped by complex and unique combinations of requirements expectations values perceived strengths interests and desires identities and knowledge The cases collectively distill how different institutions define writing and appropriate resources to writing instruction and support informing the ongoing wider cultural debates about skills writing and otherwise the preparation of educators the renewal tenuring of educators and administrative bloat in academe The nine new directors discuss more than just their labor they address their motivations their sense of self and their own thoughts about the work they do facets of writing center director labor that other types of research or scholarship have up to now left invisible The Working Lives of New Writing Center Directors strikes a new path in scholarship on writing center administration and is essential reading for present and future writing center administrators and those who mentor them

Reading the Self: Print Technologies, Authorship, And Identity Formation In The Eighteenth-Century

Marketplace Roy Bearden-White, 2017-06-24 At one major publishing house there is a running joke that the second book published on the Gutenberg press was about the death of the publishing business While this joke is an obvious exaggeration there is a certain amount of truth that with each advance in technology with each printing innovation or invention a similar death dynamic occurred This was most noticeable during the tumultuous years of the eighteenth century when a veritable flood of printing techniques business practices reading formats and sources for reading material was introduced The cultural reaction to each new technological change while not exactly the same in all respects exhibited a series of characteristics that closely mirrored each other In each case readers reacted in various ways against the innovation and supported the traditional publishing industry and in their reaction created modified and maintained a sense of their own identity

Women and Literacy Beth Daniell, Peter Mortensen, 2020-08-17 Path breaking research on women and literacy in the past decade established conventions and advanced innovative methods that push the making of knowledge into new spheres of inquiry Taking these accomplishments as a point of departure this volume emphasizes the diversity of approaches and subjects that characterizes the next generation of research on women and literacy It builds on and critiques scholarship in literacy studies composition studies rhetorical theory gender studies postcolonial theory and cultural studies to open new venues for future research Contributors discuss what literacy is more precisely what literacies are but their strongest interest is in documenting and theorizing women's lived experience of these literacies with particular attention to the diversity of women's literacies within the U S including but not limited to the varying relations that exist among women literacy economic position class race sexuality and education relations among women literacy and economic contexts in the U S and abroad including but not limited to changes in women's private and domestic literacies the evolution of technologies of literacy and women's experience of the commodification of literacies and emergent roles of women and literacy in a globally interdependent world This broad significant work is a must read for researchers and graduate students across the fields of literacy studies composition studies rhetorical theory and gender studies Silence and Acts of Memory Birgit
