Towe,2014-08-15 In the aftermath of the euphoria brought on by our military victory in the Persian Gulf War is the realization that we still have much to learn The Persian Gulf War appears to have validated the quality of U S doctrine leadership and military prowess It showcased the technical superiority of our equipment and confirmed under fire the courage and competence of our soldiers sailors airmen and marines Yet even in an overwhelming victory there are painfully hard lessons to be learned or in the case of fratricide relearned Perhaps no other aspect of our failures strike the military psyche harder than fratricide This study will suggest that we do not have to accept the fratricide statistics of the past however factual as inevitable of future U S conflicts It will propose that the facts of fratricide should be gathered not as a casualty prediction planning tool but as a focus to design training and operational procedures which in conjunction with advanced technology will work towards the significant reduction if not the elimination of fratricide from attack helicopter fires
