political science's unexamined assumption of the distinction between facts and values. Max Weber was for Strauss the most profound exponent of values relativism in social science and Behnegar's explication artfully illuminates Strauss's critique of Weber's belief in the ultimate insolubility of all value conflicts. Strauss's polemic against contemporary political science was meant to make clear the contradiction between its claim of value free premises and its commitment to democratic principles. As Behnegar ultimately shows, the ethical component lacking in a contemporary social science is essential to Strauss's project of constructing a genuinely scientific study of politics.
