Restoring Sanity Margaret J. Wheatley, 2024-03-19 What Would It Be Like to Restore Sanity What would it be like to work together again in creative and generous ways What would it be like to be curious about who you're with rather than judging or fearing them What would it be like to engage together in exploring possibilities rather than withdrawing in conflict or disagreement What would it be like to be working well together From 50 years working with leaders globally I state with full confidence that leadership has never been more difficult And it's not our fault We've been good and caring leaders we've led people in empowering engaging ways to create meaningful productive work But now we face external conditions far beyond our control to change dynamics intensifying at shocking speed The perfect storm is here created by the coalescence of climate and human created catastrophes As leaders dedicated to serving the causes and people we treasure confronted by this unrelenting tsunami what are we to do I state my answer to this also with full confidence We need to restore sanity by awakening the human spirit We can achieve this only if we undertake the most challenging and meaningful work of our leader lives Creating Islands of Sanity An Island of Sanity is a gift of possibility and refuge created by people's commitment to form healthy community to do meaningful work It requires sane leaders with unshakable faith in people's innate generosity creativity and kindness It sets itself apart as an island to protect itself from the life destroying dynamics policies and behaviors that oppress and deny the human spirit No matter what is happening around us we can discover practices that enliven our human spirits and produce meaningful contributions for this time
