A Town Like Alice:

A Town Like Alice Nevil Shute, 2017-11-16 Jean Paget is just twenty years old and working in Malaya when the Japanese invasion begins. When she is captured, she joins a group of other European women and children whom the Japanese force to march for miles through the jungle, an experience that leads to the deaths of many. Due to her courageous spirit and ability to speak Malay, Jean takes on the role of leader of the sorry gaggle of prisoners, and many end up owing their lives to her indomitable spirit. While on the march, the group runs into some Australian prisoners, one of whom Joe Harman helps them steal some food and is horrifically punished by the Japanese as a result. After the war, Jean tracks Joe down in Australia, and together they begin to dream of surmounting the past and transforming his one horse outback town into a thriving community like Alice Springs.

McGrath, 2019-04-09 Mickey Dewar made a profound contribution to the history of the Northern Territory which she performed across many genres. She produced high-quality, memorable, and multi-sensory histories, including the Cyclone Tracy exhibition at the Museum and Art Gallery of the Northern Territory and the reinterpretation of Fannie Bay Gaol. Informed by a great love of books, her passion for history was infectious. As well as offering three original chapters that appraise her work, this edited volume republishes her first book In Search of the Never-Never. In Dewar's comprehensive and incisive appraisal of the literature of the Northern Territory, she provides brilliant, often amusing insights into the ever-changing representations of a region that has featured so large in the Australian popular imagination. Prosthetic Agency Gill Plain, 2023-07-13 Prosthetic Agency: Literature, Culture, and Masculinity after World War II examines the social and psychic upheaval of demobilisation. It maps the rapid transition from wartime regimentation to individual responsibility, from intense homosociality to heteronormative expectations, from normativity to disability, and from uniformed masculinity to domestic citizenship. This book considers some of the many ways in which popular culture of the time sought to mediate these difficult transitions, exploring films, popular fiction, memoir, and biography. In particular, the book explores how technology was imagined as a new space of masculine becoming, and how disability was written, represented, and assimilated. Through a focus on popular narrative, this book explores the modes of masculinity promoted as ideally suited to national reconstruction and tries to make sense of a culture of rehabilitation that could not name or know itself as such. Narrating the Nation Stefan

Berger, Linas Eriksonas, Andrew Mycock, 2008-10-01 A sustained and systematic study of the construction, erosion, and reconstruction of national histories across a wide variety of states is highly topical and extremely relevant in the context of the accelerating processes of Europeanization and globalization. However, as demonstrated in this volume, histories have not of course only been written by professional historians. Drawing on studies from a number of different European nation-states, the contributors to this volume present a systematic exploration of the representation of the national paradigm. In doing so, they contextualize the European experience in a more global framework by providing comparative perspectives on the national histories in the Far East and North America. As such, they expose the complex variables and diverse actors that lie behind the narration of a nation.
