stub axle. Use caution during this operation not to let punch slip past cups and damage bearings. With bearing cups free of their recesses, tilt inner end of spindle upward and remove from stub axle. Do not use force to remove spindle. If spindle does not come off readily, it is probable that bearing cups are not completely free of their recesses. The lower pivot bearing can be removed from spindle by driving on a punch inserted through the knock-out holes provided in spindle. Upper pivot bearing can be removed from upper bearing cap in the same manner. See (H)—Fig. 17).

16. Clean and inspect all parts. Check bearings for roughness, damage or undue wear. Renew parts if any doubt exists as to their condition.

17. To reinstall pivot bearings, first lubricate lower bearing, drive it into position in spindle and place lower bearing cup over lower bearing. Place spindle over stub axle and support it with a jack and wood block as shown in Fig. 18. Align bearing cup with its recess in stub axle, raise jack and press lower bearing cup into its recess. Note: If necessary, bearing cup can be seated by driving on top side of stub axle while spindle is supported. Drive upper bearing cup into its recess on top side of stub axle. Install upper pivot bearing on top cap and install assembly in spindle with shallowest end of adjusting wedge slot toward outside. Be sure adjusting wedge is installed with rounded surface upward.

Wheel bearings can now be installed and pivot bearings adjusted as outlined in paragraph 14.

FRONT DRIVE AXLE Models So Equipped

18. R & K AXLE ASSEMBLY. To remove the "All-Wheel Drive" front axle and wheels as an assembly, first disconnect tie rods from steering arms. Remove "U" bolts from drive shaft front universal joint and separate universal joint. Disconnect stay rod from bracket under clutch housing and position a rolling floor jack under stay rod to support assembly. Support front of tractor, drive out pivot pin, then raise front of tractor and roll the axle and wheels assembly forward away from tractor.

19. OVERHAUL. Overhaul of the axle assembly can be considered as two operations and both operations can be accomplished without removing the axle assembly from the tractor. One operation concerns the stub axle along with the hub and the parts which make up the outer end of the axle. The other operation concerns the differential and carrier which is carried in the axle center housing. With the exception of removing the driving axles, which is involved in work of either operation, overhaul of either portion of the "All-Wheel Drive" axle can be accomplished without disturbing the other section.

20. AXLE OUTER END. Outer end of axle can be disassembled as follows: Remove wheel cover (51)—Fig. 9) and the wheel and tire assembly. Clip lock wire and remove axle retaining cap screws and tapered bushings (47) and pull axle from housing. Use caution when removing axle not to damage oil seal (21) located in axle center housing. Also see Fig. 11. Remove the two plugs and pins (43)—Fig. 9) and remove power yoke (41) and compensating ring (37) assembly from hub. Note: Pins (43) are tapped so cap screws can be used to aid in removal as shown in Fig. 19. Remove roll pins and yoke pins (42)—Fig. 9) and separate power yoke and compensating ring. Straighten lock plate tabs and remove bearing adjustment plate (34), shims (24), outer wheel bearing (33) and hub (44). Note: Identify and keep removed shims in their original relationship. Loosen jam nut and wedge adjusting screw (23), then with a small punch positioned in slot of upper pivot bearing cap (29), bump adjusting wedge (30) inward until clamp ring (31) is free. See Fig. 13. Use punch in the knock-out holes provided in spindle and bump inner wheel bearing about 1/4-inch toward outer end of spindle, then attach a puller, if necessary, and complete removal of bearing. Note: Be sure to keep bearing straight during removal as damage (scoring) to spindle could result. Use punch in knockout holes (H)—Fig. 16) provided in stub axle and bump pivot bearing cups from recesses in stub axle, then tilt inner end of spindle upward and pull assembly from stub axle.

NOTE: Do not use force to remove spindle from stub axle. If spindle cannot be removed freely it is probable that one or the other pivot bearing cups
