Reproduction in Organisms

- The period from birth to the natural death of an organism represents its life span.
- No individual is immortal, except single-celled organisms.
- Reproduction is defined as a biological process in which an organism gives rise to young ones (offspring) similar to itself.
- Reproduction enables the continuity of the species, generation after generation.
- The organism's habitat, its internal physiology, and several other factors are collectively responsible for how it reproduces.
- When offspring is produced by a single parent with or without the involvement of gamete formation, the reproduction is asexual.
- When two parents (opp. sex) participate in the reproductive process & also involve fusion
