

The 39 Steps Audition Monologues

Please select two contrasting monologues—any gender—from those listed below. Each monologue comes with a character description. Because this show is a spoof, it will require exaggerated expressions, so don't hold back! Being memorized will give you more freedom to show your acting skills, and demonstrate to the production crew your ability to prepare. If you want to try accents, go for it—if not, don't worry about it. Focus on your acting and expression.

HANNAY: Appears throughout the entire show, and has quite a few monologues. Wanted for a crime he has not committed, he is on the run from the law. Despite being good-looking, he starts the show rather lonely. Must be comfortable with being dramatic and romantic.

HANNAY. London. 1935. August. I'd been back three months in the old country and frankly wondering why. The weather made me liverish, no exercise to speak of and the talk of the ordinary Englishman made me sick. I'd had enough of restaurants and parties and race meetings. No pal to go about with – which probably explains things. Hoppy Byng lost in the Canadian Treasury, Tommy Deloraine married off to a blonde heiress in Chicago, Chips Carruthers eaten by crocodiles in the Limpopo. Leaving me. Richard Hannay. Thirty-seven years old, sound in wind and limb. Back home. Which was no home at all if you want to know.

ANNABELLA: Mysterious and very dramatic, she is a German secret agent.

ANNABELLA. (laughs harshly) The police! They would not believe me any more than you did! With their boots and their whistles! It is up to us, Mr. Hannay! I tell you these men act quickly! You don't know how clever their chief is. I know him very well. He has a dozen names! He can look like a hundred people! But one thing he cannot disguise. This part – – of his little finger is missing. So if ever you should meet a man with no top joint there –

(lifts her little finger)

(She gazes at him.)

– be very careful my friend.
