Annual Plant Reviews, The Gibberellins Peter Hedden, Stephen G. Apple Chris Sagers,2019-09-17 One of the most followed antitrust cases of recent times United States v Apple reveals an often missed truth what Americans most fear is competition itself In 2012 the Department of Justice accused Apple and five book publishers of conspiring to fix ebook prices The evidence overwhelmingly showed an unadorned price fixing conspiracy that cost consumers hundreds of millions of dollars Yet before during and after the trial millions of Americans sided with the defendants Pundits on the left and right condemned the government for its decision to sue decrying Amazon s market share railing against a new high tech economy and rallying to defend beloved authors and publishers For many Amazon was the one that should have been put on trial But why One fact went unrecognized and unreckoned with in practice Americans have long been ambivalent about competition Chris Sagers a renowned antitrust expert meticulously pulls apart the misunderstandings and exaggerations that industries as diverse as mom and pop grocers and producers of cast iron sewer pipes have cited to justify colluding to forestall competition In each of these cases antitrust law a time honored vehicle to promote competition is put on the defensive Herein lies the real insight of United States v Apple If we desire competition as a policy we must make peace with its sometimes rough consequences As bruising as markets in their ordinary operation often seem letting market forces play out has almost always benefited the consumer United States v Apple shows why supporting cases that protect price competition even when doing so hurts some of us is crucial if antitrust law is to protect and maintain markets

The Digital Banal Zara Dinnen, 2018-01-02 Contemporary culture is haunted by its media Yet in their ubiquity digital media have become increasingly banal making it harder for us to register their novelty or the scope of the social changes they have wrought What do we learn about our media environment when we look closely at the ways novelists and filmmakers narrate and depict banal use of everyday technologies How do we encounter our own media use in scenes of waiting for e mail watching eBay bids programming as work and worrying about numbers of social media likes friends and followers Zara Dinnen analyzes a range of prominent contemporary novels films and artworks to contend that we live in the condition of the digital banal not noticing the affective and political novelty of our relationship to digital media Authors like Jennifer Egan Dave Eggers Sheila Heti Jonathan Lethem Gary Shteyngart Colson Whitehead Mark Amerika Ellen Ullman and Danica Novgorodoff and films such as The Social Network and Catfish critique and reveal the ways in which digital labor isolates the individual how the work of programming has become an operation of power and the continuation of the Californian ideology which has folded the radical into the rote and the imaginary into the mundane The works of these writers and artists Dinnen argues also offer ways of resisting the more troubling aspects of the effects of new technologies as well as timely methods for seeing the digital banal as a politics of suppression Bridging the gap between literary studies and media studies The Digital Banal recovers the shrouded disturbances that can help us recognize and antagonize our media environment
