 CHAPTER 1: _____

1. The first step in the scientific process is to ask a question.

The second step is to do background research. This is where you find out what is already known about the topic. This is done by reading books, articles, and other sources of information. The third step is to form a hypothesis. This is a statement that you think is true, but you need to test it. The fourth step is to test the hypothesis. This is done by doing an experiment. The fifth step is to analyze the results. This is where you look at the data and see if it supports your hypothesis. The sixth step is to draw a conclusion. This is where you decide if your hypothesis was correct or not. The seventh step is to communicate the results. This is where you share your findings with others.

Key Concepts:

- 1. The scientific process is a series of steps that are used to answer a question or solve a problem.
- 2. The steps are: ask a question, do background research, form a hypothesis, test the hypothesis, analyze the results, draw a conclusion, and communicate the results.
