Geller present a critical edition translation and commentary on the Sumerian scholastic dialogue otherwise known as Two Scribes Streit zweier Schulabsolventen or Dialogue 1 The two protagonists the Professor and the Bureaucrat each ridicule their opponent in alternating speeches while at the same time scoring points based on their detailed knowledge of Sumerian lexical and literary traditions But they also represent the two social roles into which nearly all graduates of the Old Babylonian Tablet House typically gained entrance So the dialogue also reflects on larger themes such as professional identity and the nature of scholastic activity in Mesopotamia in the Old Babylonian period ca 1800-1600 BCE Physician-Assisted Suicide: What are the Issues? L.M. Kopelman, K.A. de Ville, 2001-10-31 Physician Assisted Suicide: What are the Issues offers a detailed discussion of recent supreme court rulings that have had an impact on the contemporary debate in the United States and elsewhere over physician assisted suicide Two rulings by the U.S. Supreme Court have altered the contemporary debate on physician assisted suicide Washington v. Glucksberg 1997 and Vacco v. Quill 1997 In these cases the Supreme Court ruled that state laws could prohibit assisted suicide and therefore physician assisted suicide These rulings mark the apex of over two decades of unprecedented litigation regarding end of life care and signal the beginning of a new clinical ethical and legal debate over the extent of an individual's rights to control the timing manner and means of his/her death The debate over suicide and assisting suicide is ancient and contentious and intertwined with questions about the permissibility of voluntary active euthanasia or mercy killing Responses to these issues can be divided into those who defend physician assisted suicide and many of these other activities and those who object But those who object may do so on principled grounds in that they regard these activities as wrong in all cases or non-principled in that they believe there are more prudent less disruptive or more efficient policies The authors in this book sort out these responses and look at the assumptions underlying them Several of these authors give startling new interpretations that a culture gap deeper and wider than that in the abortion debate exists

How Best to 'Go On'? Prospects for a 'Modern Synthesis' in the Sciences of Mind Kevin Moore, John Cromby, 2016-08-08
Psychology straddles areas from the biological to the social and cultural Within that vast range there have been recent explosions of interest in neuropsychology genetics and epigenetics and the evolutionary bases of mindedness Correspondingly there have been conceptual innovations and new empirical evidence in relation to the embodied social and discursive processes supporting mind and personhood Simultaneously awareness of developmental processes and their dynamic interweaving of genetic physiological neurological social and cultural elements has also increased Might such developments help connect the dots between diverse aspects of mindedness and the contexts within which it arises Whilst it seems clear that mind is co constituted of both biological and socio cultural processes how might we bring these disparate realms of knowledge together In a number of these areas suggestive integrative possibilities have been explored e g predictive processing embodied and situated cognition dynamic developmental systems theory and insights such as a focus on action knowledge as skills embeddedness and connectivity have been pursued across a range of disciplines This edited collection of articles bring together such possibilities and others in the same forum in order to provide an opportunity to revisit a recurring discussion within theoretical psychology The claimed lack of and potential for theoretical synthesis and unity While the chapters range over a number of areas of research this collection is focused on current prospects for conceptual synthesis within or convergence of research between aspects of mind and mindedness As is clear from the contributions it highlights integrative conceptual proposals that emphasize action orientation process embeddedness and connectivity especially between explanatory levels Beyond specific proposals for integration several of the contributions explicitly or implicitly expose broader questions about the purpose of psychological research the epistemological and ontological commitments required and the relevant social political and economic contexts within which such research is performed This is perhaps inevitable since any aim for synthesis of various understandings of mind will or should lead to consideration of the general implications beyond the science that follow from an integrated account of mind and mindedness Whether or not the contributions in this volume provide insights into profitable paths towards greater theoretical synthesis in the sciences of mind or alternatively provide grist for the mill of renewed skepticism over the potential or even desirability of such synthesis is unpredictable Whichever the outcome we feel sure that they will help provoke future productive research in and thinking about the sciences of mind Kevin Moore and John Cromby Associate Guest Editors Military Medical Ethics, Volume 1 ,
