A Tour Of Bones Facing Fear And Looking For Life:

A Tour of Bones Denise Inge,2014-11-06 A life enhancing exploration of how to live well in the face of mortality Author academic and adventurer Denise Inge grew up in a large and rambunctious family on the east coast of America She crossed the Sahara charmed snakes in Marrakech and cycled the Adirondack mountains but her latest adventure is an interior one It starts with the discovery that her house is built on a crypt full of human skeletons Facing her fear of these strangers bones takes her to other charnel houses in Europe and on a journey into the meaning of bones themselves This exploration though it began before her diagnosis with an inoperable sarcoma takes on a new significance when the question of living well in the face of mortality abruptly ceases to be hypothetical A Tour of Bones is a passionate testament to the conviction that living is more than not dying and that contemplating mortality is not about being prepared to die but about being prepared to live for anyone who has ever wandered through a field of crooked headstones and wondered about the lives and deaths of those who lie beneath The Materiality and Spatiality of Death, Burial and Commemoration Christoph Klaus Streb, Thomas Kolnberger, 2021-09-28 Death dying and burial produce artefacts and occur in spatial contexts The interplay between such materiality and the bereaved who commemorate the dead yields interpretations and creates meanings that can change over time Materiality is more than simple matter void of meaning or relevance The apparent inanimate has meaning It is charged with significance has symbolic and interpretative value perhaps a form of selfhood which originates from the interaction with the animate In our case gravestones bodily remains and the spatial order of the cemetery are explored for their material agency and relational constellations with human perceptions and actions Consciously and unconsciously by interacting with such materiality one is creating meaning while materiality retroactively provides a form of agency Spatiality provides more than a mere context it permits and shapes such interaction Thus artefacts mementos and memorials are exteriorised materialised and spatialized forms of human activity they can be understood as cultural forms the function of which is to sustain social life However they are also the medium through which values ideas and criteria of social distinction are reproduced legitimised or transformed This book will explore this interplay by going beyond the consideration of simple grave artefacts on the one hand and graveyards as a space on the other hand to examine the specific interrelationships between materiality spatiality the living and the dead The chapters in this book were originally published as a special issue of the journal Mortality

Leisure and Death Adam Kaul, Jonathan Skinner, 2018-05-28 This anthropological study examines the relationship between leisure and death specifically how leisure practices are used to meditate upon and mediate life Considering travelers who seek enjoyment but encounter death and dying tourists who accidentally face their own mortality while vacationing those who intentionally seek out pleasure activities that pertain to mortality and risk and those who use everyday leisure practices like social media or dogwalking to cope with death Leisure and Death delves into one of the most provocative subsets of contemporary cultural anthropology These nuanced and well developed ethnographic case studies deal with different and distinct examples of the intertwining of leisure and death They challenge established conceptions of leisure and rethink the associations attached to the prospect of death Chapters testify to encounters with death on a personal and scholarly level exploring for example the Cliffs of Moher as not only one of the most popular tourist destinations in Ireland but one of the most well known suicide destinations as well and the estimated 30 million active posthumous Facebook profiles being repurposed through proxy users and transformed by continued engagement with the living From the respectful to the fascinated from the macabre to the morbid contributors consider how people deliberately or unexpectedly negotiate the borderlands of the living An engaging timely book that explores how spaces of death can be transformed into spaces of leisure Leisure and Death makes a significant contribution to the burgeoning interdisciplinary literature on leisure studies and dark tourism This book will appeal to students scholars and laypeople interested in tourism studies death studies cultural studies heritage studies anthropology sociology and marketing Contributors Kathleen M Adams Michael Arnold Jane Desmond Keith Egan Maribeth Erb James Fernandez Martin Gibbs Rachel Horner Brackett Shingo Iitaka Tamara Kohn Patrick Laviolette Ruth McManus James Meese Bjorn Nansen Stravoula Pipyrrou Hannah Rumble Cyril Schafer
