different hydrological responses to changes in climate and human activities and have different water demands in different basins or regions. However, the hydrological and ecological system response remains uncertain. Water resources management and ecological restoration under a changing world need to elucidate its hydrological and ecological response and then provide a suitable way to adapt to global change. This Research Topic aims to collect and present the latest research developments in hydrological and ecological response in different basins or regions and its implication for water resources management and ecological restoration. Articles published in this Research Topic would elucidate divergent evidence in hydrological and ecological response, explain it with new and deep insight, and interpret its implication for ecological water demand, water resources management, and planning ecological restoration. These articles are expected to benefit communities, basins, and government agencies in water and ecosystem management that deal with hydrological and ecological responses in a changing world.

Artificial Intelligence Solutions for Global Health and Disaster Response: Challenges and Opportunities Tetyana Chumachenko, Plinio Pelegrini Morita, Dmytro Chumachenko, Saman Ghaffarian, 2024-09-02. Artificial intelligence (AI) has shown promise as an effective tool in disaster preparedness and response, providing a unique perspective on some of the most urgent health challenges. Rapid advances in AI technology can potentially revolutionize the way how we respond to emergencies and disasters that affect the world's health, including early warning systems, resource allocation, and real-time decision making. This Research Topic aims to explore the latest developments in AI and its applications in global health and disaster response, providing a comprehensive overview of the potential and challenges of AI in improving health outcomes in crises. This Research Topic will bring together leading researchers, practitioners, and policymakers in global health and disaster response to share their experiences and insights on how AI can be leveraged to improve response efforts and enhance healthcare delivery.

Wetlands and Water Resources: Ecological Solutions for the Environment Guangzhi Sun,Xiaofei Yu,Yuanchun Zou,Guobin Fu,2023-04-12 Wetlands are usually located in complex landscapes Multiple ecosystem services delivered by wetlands to human well being should be considered in broader contexts of wetland functions water quality water resource management and wetland conservation Natural wetlands are kidneys and sponges of the earth that remove water pollutants and provide hydrological regulation functions vital to the environment

Where the functions of the wetlands are weakened actions of rehabilitations are needed to revitalize those functions While worldwide many natural wetlands have disappeared due to climate change and or human activities constructed wetlands which may be seen as artificial kidneys sponges of the earth have been increasingly built to replicate the functions of the natural wetlands This Research Topic aims to collect and present the latest research developments in natural and constructed wetlands in relation to either water resource functions or water quality Articles published in this Research Topic will showcase new understandings of water balances and flow patterns vegetation characteristics and pollutant transformations in wetland systems innovative designs and efficiencies of wastewater treatment wetlands and technologies that revitalize the ecosystem functions of natural wetlands These articles are expected to bring benefits to research communities water and wastewater industries and government agencies that deal with wetland water management and conservation High quality Original Research and Review articles in this field are all welcome for submission to this Research Topic Research interests include but are not limited to the following areas 1 Water balances and flow patterns in natural wetland systems 2 The hydrological regulation functions and importance of natural wetlands in their environmental context 3 Vegetation characteristics of natural wetlands and their functional importance in wetland water pollution control 4 Techniques for the rehabilitation of degraded wetlands 5 The role of constructed wetlands in wastewater treatment 6 Innovative designs and efficiencies of wastewater treatment wetlands 7 The modeling of hydrological and or pollutant dynamics in wetland systems 8 The ecohydrology of wetlands 9 The role of wetlands in the global carbon cycle 10 Impacts of climate change and human activities on wetland hydrology and water resources Recognizing that hydrological and biogeochemical processes are basically coupled in wetlands and their landscapes manuscripts that report their interactions are particularly welcome

Methods in Ecosystem Science Osvaldo E. Sala, Robert B. Jackson, Harold A. Mooney, Robert Howarth, 2000-08-11 Ecology at the ecosystem level has both necessitated and benefited from new methods and technologies as well as those adapted from other disciplines With the ascendancy of ecosystem science and management the need has arisen for a comprehensive treatment of techniques used in this rapidly growing field Methods in Ecosystem Science answers that need by synthesizing the advantages disadvantages and tradeoffs associated with the most commonly used techniques in both aquatic and terrestrial research The book is divided into sections addressing carbon and energy dynamics nutrient and water dynamics manipulative ecosystem experiments and tools to synthesize our understanding of ecosystems Detailed information about various methods will help researchers choose the most appropriate methods for their particular studies Prominent scientists discuss how tools from a variety of disciplines can be used in ecosystem science at different scales

Systems Analysis and Simulation in Ecology Bernard C. Patten, 2013-09-11 Systems Analysis and Simulation in Ecology Volume IV continues the organization begun in Volume III to document a meeting Modeling and Analysis of Ecosystems held at the University of Georgia on 13 March 1973 Several chapters are considerably expanded over their original concept and several others are included which were not part of the symposium The book is organized into five parts Part I contains chapters on estuarine marine ecosystems Part II presents models of several terrestrial ecosystems Part III has chapters devoted to human aspects of ecology Part IV considers special problems of ecosystem modeling namely linear versus nonlinear models aggregation and validation Part V the most extensive section describes theory in ecosystem analysis The book s chapters demonstrate the current scope of systems ecology its past and present emphasis on parts and mechanisms in simulation modeling and its movement toward systems analysis and new more formal consideration of wholes in theory They make clear that although the systems approach is young in ecology it has substantially enriched the science both methodologically and conceptually
