

THE SKELETON
The skeleton is the framework of the body, supporting the soft organs and tissues. It is composed of bones and cartilage. The bones are made of a hard, white, mineralized substance called bone tissue. The cartilage is a soft, flexible tissue that connects the bones to each other and to the other parts of the body. The skeleton is divided into the axial skeleton (skull, spine, and rib cage) and the appendicular skeleton (arms and legs).

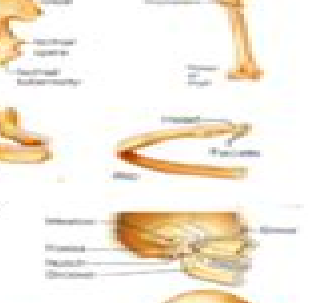

THE MUSCLES
The muscles are the soft tissue that contracts to move the bones. They are made of muscle fibers that are connected to each other by a network of nerves. The muscles are divided into the skeletal muscles (which are attached to the bones) and the smooth muscles (which are found in the walls of the internal organs).

THE JOINTS
The joints are the points where two or more bones meet. They allow the bones to move relative to each other. There are three main types of joints: the ball-and-socket joint (hip and shoulder), the hinge joint (elbow and knee), and the pivot joint (neck).

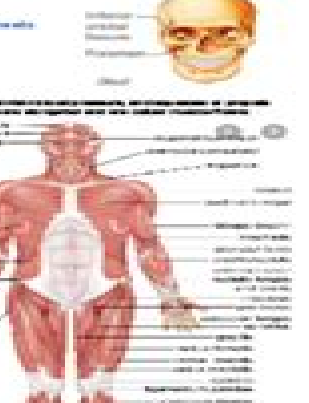

THE BLOOD
The blood is the fluid that carries oxygen and nutrients to the cells and removes waste products. It is composed of red blood cells, white blood cells, and platelets. The blood is pumped by the heart through a network of blood vessels.

THE HEART
The heart is the organ that pumps the blood. It is a muscular organ that is divided into four chambers: the right atrium, right ventricle, left atrium, and left ventricle. The heart is located in the center of the chest, between the lungs.

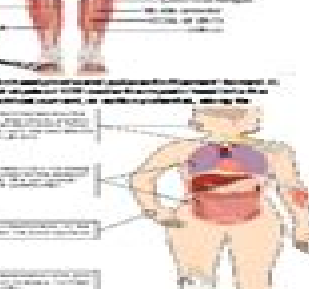

THE NERVOUS SYSTEM
The nervous system is the system that controls the body. It is composed of the brain, spinal cord, and nerves. The brain is the central control center, and the nerves carry messages between the brain and the rest of the body.

THE DIGESTIVE SYSTEM
The digestive system is the system that breaks down food into nutrients that the body can use. It is composed of the mouth, esophagus, stomach, and intestines. The nutrients are absorbed into the blood and then transported to the cells.

THE RESPIRATORY SYSTEM
The respiratory system is the system that takes in oxygen and removes carbon dioxide. It is composed of the trachea, bronchi, and lungs. The oxygen is transported to the cells by the blood.

THE EXCRETORY SYSTEM
The excretory system is the system that removes waste products from the body. It is composed of the kidneys, ureters, and bladder. The waste products are removed from the blood and excreted from the body.
