A Wavering Grace A Vietnamese Family In War And Peace:

A Wavering Grace Gavin Young,1997 A Wavering Grace Gavin Young,1997 An account of the history of a Vietnamese family and how they have fared from the time of the American invasion to the present day Drifting - Architecture and Migrancy Stephen Cairns,2003-11-27 To dwell in these globalizing times requires us to negotiate increasingly palpable flows of capital ideas images goods technology and people Such flows seem to pressurize breach and sometimes even disaggregate the places we always imagined to be distinctive and stable This book is focussed on the interaction of two elements within this contemporary situation The first is the very idea of a place we imagine to be distinctive and stable This idea is explored through architecture the institution that in the West has claimed the responsibility for imagining and producing places along these lines The second element is a particular kind of global flow namely the human flows of immigrants refugees exiles guestworkers and other migrant groups This book carefully inspects the intersections between architectures of place and flows of migrancy It does so without seeking to defend the idea of place nor lament its passing Rather this book is an exploration of the often complex and unorthodox modes of dwelling that are emerging precisely from within the ruins of the idea of place This exploration is informed by critical analyses of architecture and urbanism and their representation in media such as film The book is animated empirically by a set of overlapping and intersecting trajectories that shift from Hong Kong to Canada Australia and Germany from Southern Europe to Australia from Britain to India Canada and New Zealand from Southeast Asia to the Pacific Islands to New Zealand and from Latin America and East Asia to the United States But each geographical context discussed represents only one point within a wider pattern of movement that implicates other localities and so signals the very undoing of a unified geographical logic

States-in-Waiting Lydia Walker,2024-05-16 After the Second World War national self determination became a recognized international norm yet it only extended to former colonies Groups within postcolonial states that made alternative sovereign claims were disregarded or actively suppressed Showcasing their contested histories Lydia Walker offers a powerful counternarrative of global decolonization highlighting little known regions marginalized individuals and their hidden or lost archives She depicts the personal connections that linked disparate nationalist struggles across the globe through advocacy networks demonstrating that these advocates had their own agendas and allegiances which she argues could undermine the autonomy of the claimants they supported By foregrounding particular nationalist movements in South Asia and Southern Africa and their transnational advocacy networks States in Waiting illuminates the un endings of decolonization the unfinished and improvised ways that the state centric international system replaced empire which left certain claims of sovereignty perpetually awaiting recognition This title is also available as Open Access on Cambridge Core
