The National Anthem

Read the text and answer the questions.

The national anthem of Canada, "O Canada," is a significant symbol of national pride and identity. Composed in 1880 by Calixa Lavallée, with lyrics originally written by Sir Adolphe-Basile Routhier, the anthem has undergone several revisions over the years. It was officially adopted as the national anthem in 1980, marking a celebration of Canadian heritage and unity.

"O Canada" expresses themes of patriotism and love for the country, highlighting the beauty of Canada's landscapes and the strength of its people. The anthem is often performed at public events, sports games, and national celebrations, evoking a sense of community and belonging among Canadians.

The anthem reflects Canada's diverse culture and history. While the original French lyrics celebrate the nation's natural beauty and values, the English version, which was adapted later, emphasizes loyalty and pride. This duality showcases Canada's bilingual heritage and commitment to inclusivity.

In addition to the anthem, other symbols represent Canada's identity, including the maple leaf, the beaver, and the Canadian flag. Together, these symbols contribute to a rich tapestry of national pride, promoting unity and a sense of belonging among Canadians.

In summary, "O Canada" serves as a powerful symbol of national identity, encapsulating the values and spirit of the Canadian people. Its significance is felt across the country, fostering a sense of unity and pride in Canada's heritage.
