

Anue 3500 Synchronization Test Solution

Keeping Pace With Mobile Data

Driven by the use of smartphones and high-bandwidth applications such as streaming video, mobile data traffic continues to abound worldwide. As the steadily rising traffic volumes erode the profitability of traditional flat-rate pricing plans, service providers are increasingly working to improve margin by lowering network infrastructure costs.

Strategies include replacing legacy time division multiplexing (TDM) with Carrier Ethernet to reduce backhaul costs while increasing scalability. This involves distributing timing and synchronization to mobile base stations over new packet switched networks. To maintain sufficient quality throughout migration, mobile network operators, carriers, and manufacturers of devices and ICs used in backhaul and synchronization must ensure that:

- Packet-switched networks will deliver accurate and precise timing
- Voice and multimedia services will provide an acceptable Quality of Experience (QoE) to subscribers
- Legacy TDM services can be maintained over next-generation network (NGN) PSNs

Verifying real-world performance during design and development prevents dips in quality, slow speeds, and ultimately, customer churn. The Ixia Anue 3500 provides the industry's premier Carrier Ethernet test solution delivering the comprehensive, accurate, repeatable results needed to validate performance, improve productivity and optimize cost.

Ixia Anue 3500: The Industry's Premier Solution

The Ixia Anue 3500 provides an intuitive solution for validating the performance of synchronization services and the Carrier Ethernet functions required in next-generation carrier grade IP-based networks. Two emerging synchronization technologies – Precision Time Protocol (PTP) and Synchronous Ethernet (SyncE) – are being widely implemented, but must be thoroughly tested before deployment to ensure quality.

The industry's most accurate, feature-rich, and precise solution for testing Carrier Ethernet synchronization, the Ixia Anue 3500 equips test and development engineers with:

- Real-world network conditions via standard-based test suites or playback impairment conditions captured from actual production networks
- Comprehensive testing solution for Boundary/Transparent/Slave and SyncE EEC devices

- SyncE Wander Tolerance, Transfer, and Generation Testing (G.8262, G.8264, G.811, G.823, G.824)
- Test automation TCL API
- Multiple interface support including 100M/1G/10G Ethernet, T1/E1, 1PPS and others
