Hayes, 1974 To develop alternative solutions to Air Force problems relating to signal transmission in the presence of ionization AFCRL undertook an extensive investigation of techniques for modifying reentry plasmas The program included laboratory tests and a series of reentry flight experiments This report describes the flight test of one successful technique Teflon ablation a passive approach that requires no internal support systems A reentry vehicle fitted with a Teflon coated nose cap was instrumented to measure antenna impedance mismatch interantenna coupling signal attenuation and charged particle density The probe data showed that the local boundary layer electron density decreased by as much as a factor of 200 The Teflon coating effected a 25 dB decrease in S band signal attenuation High power antenna breakdown was modified by the presence of the ablation products Details of the vehicle design flight dynamics and ablation are presented and the results of the Teflon ablation technique are contrasted with those of a successful liquid injection technique that was tested on a previous flight Oxford University Gazette University of Oxford,1882 ERDA Energy Research Abstracts United States. Questions of Uniqueness and Resolution in Reconstruction from Projections M. B. Katz,2013-03-13 Reconstruction from projections has revolutionized radiology and has now become one of the most important tools of medical diagnosis The E M I Scanner is one example In this text some fundamental theoretical and practical questions are resolved Despite recent research activity in the area the crucial subject of the uniqueness of the reconstruction and the effect of noise in the data posed some unsettled fundamental questions In particular Kennan Smith proved that if we describe an object by a C^∞ function i.e infinitely differentiable with compact support then there are other objects with the same shape i.e support which can differ almost arbitrarily and still have the same projections in finitely many directions On the other hand he proved that objects in finite dimensional function spaces are uniquely determined by a single projection for almost all angles i.e except on a set of measure zero Along these lines Herman and Rowland in Three Methods for reconstructing objects from x rays a comparative study 1973 showed that reconstructions obtained from the commonly used algorithms can grossly misrepresent the object and that the algorithm which produced the best reconstruction when using noiseless data gave unsatisfactory results with noisy data Equally important are reports in Science and personal communications by radiologists indicating that in medical practice failure rates of reconstruction vary from four to twenty percent within this work the mathematical dilemma posed by Kennan Smith's result is discussed and clarified Unfolding Consciousness Edi Bilimoria,2024-03-11 Exploring the Living Universe and Intelligent Powers in Nature and Humans author Edi Bilimoria heralds the new science of consciousness and offers the readers a roadmap and necessary tools to achieve future growth Presented in three volumes plus volume IV contains references resources further reading they reveal the unity of the Eastern and Western branches of our perineal wisdom Bilimoria shows how science seeks truth using a synthesis of both traditions Evidence from a wide range of sources scientific medical philosophical religious and cultural is put forward to argue the case that humans are spiritual beings primarily and not merely complicated biological machines Bilimoria teaches that consciousness is not the product of matter but the primary element from which all else emanates This process and its underlying mechanisms are described in detail with much clarity This work has over 2000 references and is supported by copious tables and diagrams plus individual chapter summaries and sidenotes to assist readers in navigating the multidimensional terrain traversed Key areas The
