2014 Life Orientation Grade 1final Exam:

Research on Emotion and Learning: Contributions from Latin America Camilo Hurtado-Parrado, Carlos Gantiva, Leonardo A. Ortega, Alexander Gómez-A, Lucas Cuenya, Javier Leonardo Rico, 2020-05-11 Latin America has increased its share of world scientific publications by nearly twofold during the last two decades approximately from 2 to 4% Despite this positive trend the scholarly impact of scientific research produced in the region measured in terms of citation rate remains low Two interrelated factors that contribute to this situation is that most research groups tend to work in isolation or in local sporadic collaboration and results are often published in journals that are not indexed in major citation databases e g SCOPUS or Web of Science Ultimately part of Latin American high quality research seems to remain hidden from the rest of the world Over the last decades an important number of Latin American scientists have developed fruitful research agendas on questions on learning and emotion focusing on basic and or translational research with humans and other animal models and implementing diverse methodologies Notwithstanding the important contributions of these research programs Latin American research on emotion and learning has followed the overall trend of other research fields throughout the region namely remaining partially hidden from the large scientific community of the world This Research Topic aimed to engage researchers from Latin America to share their empirical and conceptual work on learning and emotion Ultimately this effort was expected to strengthen and integrate our regional community of experts enhance global networking and establish new challenges and developments for future investigation

Social Background and the Demographic Life Course:
Cross-National Comparisons Aart C. Liefbroer, Mioara Zoutewelle-Terovan, 2021-04-21 This open access book examines how childhood social disadvantage influences young adult demographic decision making and later life economic and well being outcomes This book in particular focuses on testing whether the consequences of childhood social disadvantage for adult outcomes differ across societies and whether these differences are shaped by the context of opportunities that societies offer to diminish the adverse impact of economic and social deprivation The book integrates a longitudinal approach and provides new insights in how the experience of childhood disadvantage e g low parental socio economic status family disruption influences demographic decisions in adulthood e g the timing of family events such as cohabitation marriage or parenthood the risk of divorce or having a child outside a partner relationship the exposure to later life loneliness poor health and economic adversity Moreover using a cross national comparative perspective it investigates whether the relationships of interest differ across nations and tests the context of opportunities hypothesis arguing that the links between childhood disadvantage and adult outcomes are weakened in societal contexts offering good opportunities for people to escape situations of deprivation To do so the book analyzes national contexts based on economic prosperity family values and norms and welfare state arrangements

Teaching and Learning in a Digital World Michael E. Auer, David Guralnick, Istvan Simonics, 2017-12-26 This book gathers the Proceedings of the 20th International Conference on Interactive Collaborative Learning ICL2017 held in Budapest Hungary on 27 29 September 2017 The authors are currently witnessing a significant transformation in the development of education The impact of globalisation on all areas of human life the exponential acceleration of technological developments and global markets and the need for flexibility and agility are essential and challenging elements of this process that have to be tackled in general but especially in engineering education To face these current real world challenges higher education has to find innovative ways to quickly respond to them Since its inception in 1998 this conference has been devoted to new approaches in learning with a focus on collaborative learning Today the ICL conferences offer a forum for exchange concerning relevant trends and research results and for sharing practical experience gained while developing and testing elements of new technologies and pedagogies in the learning context

Mixed Messages Stefanie Mollborn, 2017 Sex is bad Unprotected sex is a problem Having a baby would be a disaster Abortion is a sin Teenagers in the United States hear conflicting messages about sex from everyone around them How do teens understand these messages In Mixed Messages Stefanie Mollborn examines how social norms and social control work through in depth interviews with college students and teen mothers and fathers revealing the tough conversations teenagers just can't have with adults Delving into teenagers' complicated social worlds Mollborn argues that by creating informal social sanctions like gossip and exclusion and formal communication such as sex education families peers schools and communities strategize to gain control over teens' behaviors However while teens strategize to keep control they resist the constraints of the norms revealing the variety of outcomes that occur beyond compliance or deviance By showing that the norms existing today around teen sex are ineffective failing to regulate sexual behavior and instead punishing teens that violate them Mollborn calls for a more thoughtful and consistent dialogue between teens and adults emphasizing messages that will lead to more positive health outcomes health and social care subjects and is particularly relevant for practice courses as well as courses on Human Growth and Development and Human Behavior in the Social Environment Emotional Intelligence and Cognitive Abilities Pablo Fernández-Berrocal, Purificación Checa, 2016-09-07 Nowadays not only psychologists are interested in the study of Emotional Intelligence EI Teachers educator managers employers and people in general pay attention to EI For example teachers would like to know how EI could affect student s academic results and managers are concerned about how EI influences their employees performance The concept of EI has been widely used in recent years to the extent that people start to applying it in daily life EI is broadly defined as the capacity to process and use emotional information More specifically according to Mayer and Salovey EI is the ability to 1 accurate perception appraise and expression of emotion 2 access and or generation of feelings when they facilitate thought 3 understand emotions and emotional knowledge and 4 regulate emotions to promote emotional and intellectual growth Mayer and Salovey 1997 p 10 When new information arises into one specific area of knowledge the work of the scientists is to investigate the relation between this new information and other established concepts In this sense EI could be considered as a new framework to explain human behaviour As a young concept in Psychology EI could be used to elucidate the performance in the activities of everyday life Over the past two decades studies of EI have tried to delimitate how EI is linked to other competences A vast number of studies have reported a relation between EI and a large list of competences such as academic and work success life satisfaction attendee to emotions assertiveness emotional expression emotional based decision making impulsive control stress management among others Moreover recent researches have shown that EI plays an important role in the prediction of behaviour besides personality and cognitive factors However it is not until quite recently that studies on EI have considered the importance of individual differences in EI and their interaction with cognitive abilities The general issue of this Research Topic was to expose the role of individual differences on EI in the development of a large number of competencies that support a more efficient performance in people s everyday life The present Research Topic provide an extensive review that may give light to the better understanding of how individual differences in EI affect human behaviour We have considered studies that analyse 1 how EI contributes to emotional cognitive and social process beyond the well known contribution of IQ and personality traits as well as the brain system that supports the EI 2 how EI contributes to relationships among emotions and health and well being 3 the roles of EI during early development and the evaluation in different populations 4 how implicit beliefs about emotions and EI influence emotional abilities Theoretical and Historical Evolutions of Self-Directed Learning Caleb Collier, 2023-04-14 This book analyzes the deep historical and theoretical roots of self directed learning models in order to put forward a new conceptual understanding of self directed learning It utilizes philosophical methods to present arguments both historical and contemporary in favor of shifting education toward self directed models and away from a view of education that places teachers administration curriculum and standards at the center of the learning endeavor This book demonstrates that self directed learning has proven to be effective in numerous contexts and builds on this history to present a new philosophy of education termed Eudemonic Self Directed Learning for individual and societal flourishing Exploring exemplars from different cultural and historical settings to inform post pandemic pedagogies and policies this book will appeal to scholars and researchers of the history and philosophy of education with interests in self directed learning and its potential for contemporary practice

Students at Risk of School Failure José Jesús Gázquez, José Carlos Núñez, 2018-10-18 The main objective of this Research Topic is to determine the conditions that place students at risk of school failure identifying student and context variables In spite of the fact that there is currently little doubt about how one learns and how to teach in some countries of the developed world there is still there is a high rate of school failure Although the term school failure is a very complex construct insofar as its causes consequences and development from the field of educational psychology the construct student engagement has recently gained special interest in an attempt to deal with the serious problem of school failure School engagement builds on the anatomy of the students involvement in school and describes their feelings behaviors and thoughts about their school experiences So engagement is an important component of students school experience with a close relationship to achievement and school failure Children who self set academic goals attend school regularly and on time behave well in class complete their homework and study at home are likely to interact adequately with the school social and physical environments and perform well in school In contrast children who miss school are more likely to display disruptive behaviors in class miss homework frequently exhibit violent behaviors on the playground fail subjects be retained and if the behaviors persist quit school Moreover engagement should also be considered as an important school outcome eliciting more or less supportive reactions from educators. For example, children who display school engaged behaviors are likely to receive motivational and instructional support from their teachers. The opposite may also be true. But what makes students engage more or less? The relevant literature indicates that personal variables (e.g., sensory motor, neurodevelopmental, cognitive, motivational, emotional, behavior problems, learning difficulties, addictions) and social and/or cultural variables (e.g., negative family conditions, child abuse, cultural deprivation, ethnic conditions, immigration) or school variables (e.g., coexistence at school, bullying, cyberbullying) may concurrently hinder engagement, preventing the student from acquiring the learnings in the same conditions as the rest of the classmates.
