A Guide To Monitoring Carbon Storage:

A Guide to Monitoring Carbon Storage in Forestry and Agroforestry Projects Kenneth G. MacDicken, 1997 Assessing Carbon Stocks and Modelling Win-win Scenarios of Carbon Sequestration Through Land-use Changes Raul Ponce-Hernandez, Parviz Koochafkan, Jacques Antoine, 2004-01-01 This publication contains a methodology and software tools for assessing carbon stocks and modelling scenarios of carbon sequestration developed and tested in pilot field studies in Mexico and Cuba. The models and tools enable the analysis of land use change scenarios in order to identify in a given area watershed or district land use alternatives and land management practices that can both maximise food production, soil carbon sequestration and biodiversity and minimize land degradation. The aim is to develop and implement win-win options that satisfy the multiple goals of farmers, land users and other stakeholders in relation to food security, carbon sequestration, biodiversity and land conservation. The publication also contains a CD-ROM including three case studies and a Soil C program, demo program and user manual. Best Practices for Terrestrial Sequestration of Carbon Dioxide (TSCD),

Methods for Measuring Greenhouse Gas Balances and Evaluating Mitigation Options in Smallholder Agriculture Todd S. Rosenstock, Mariana C. Rufino, Klaus Butterbach-Bahl, Lini Wollenberg, Meryl Richards, 2016-08-23 This book provides standards and guidelines for quantifying greenhouse gas emissions and removals in smallholder agricultural systems and comparing options for climate change mitigation based on emission reductions and livelihood trade-offs. Globally, agriculture is directly responsible for about 11% of annual greenhouse gas (GHG) emissions and induces an additional 17% through land use change, mostly in developing countries. Farms in the developing countries of sub-Saharan Africa and Asia are predominately managed by smallholders with 80% of land holdings smaller than ten hectares. However, little to no information exists on greenhouse gas emissions and mitigation potentials in smallholder agriculture. Greenhouse gas measurements in agriculture are expensive, time-consuming and error-prone challenges only exacerbated by the heterogeneity of smallholder systems and landscapes. Concerns over methodological rigor, measurement costs and the diversity of approaches coupled with the demand for robust information suggest it is germane for the scientific community to establish standards of measurements for quantifying GHG emissions from smallholder agriculture. Standard guidelines for use by scientists, development organizations will help generate reliable data on emissions, baselines and allow rigorous comparisons of mitigation options. The guidelines described in this book, developed by the CGIAR Research Program on Climate Change, Agriculture and Food Security (CCAFS) and partners, are intended to inform anyone conducting field measurements of agricultural greenhouse gas sources and sinks, especially to develop IPCC Tier 2 emission factors or to compare mitigation options in smallholder systems. Carbon Inventory Methods N.H. Ravindranath, Madelene Ostwald, 2007-12-03 Carbon Inventory Methods Handbook fills the need for a handbook that provides guidelines and methods required for carbon inventory. Capturing Carbon and Conserving Biodiversity Ian R. Swingland, 2013 For decades conservation has been based on the donor driven principle It hasn't worked For centuries environmental pollution or degradation has been addressed by the same attitude the Polluter Pays principle That hasn't worked either The cycle has to stop But while everyone talks about using a market driven approach few know how to do it Faced with the situation on the ground what do you do What is happening How can you engage a system so that it is self sustaining and the people self motivated This study explores how the growing market in carbon can help to conserve carbon based life forms It discusses how reducing global warming and saving biodiversity can both be achieved with the right market conditions The contributors include conservation biologists ecologists biologists economists lawyers community and tribal specialists financial specialists market makers environment specialists climatologists resource managers atmospheric scientists project developers and corporate fund managers

Werner L. Kutsch, Michael Bahn, Andreas Heinemeyer, 2010-01-07 Carbon stored in soils represents the largest terrestrial carbon pool and factors affecting this will be vital in the understanding of future atmospheric CO₂ concentrations This book provides an integrated view on measuring and modeling soil carbon dynamics Based on a broad range of in depth contributions by leading scientists it gives an overview of current research concepts developments and outlooks and introduces cutting edge methodologies ranging from questions of appropriate measurement design to the potential application of stable isotopes and molecular tools It includes a standardised soil CO₂ efflux protocol aimed at data consistency and inter site comparability and thus underpins a regional and global understanding of soil carbon dynamics This book provides an important reference work for students and scientists interested in many aspects of soil ecology and biogeochemical cycles policy makers carbon traders and others concerned with the global carbon cycle Climate Change
