inspire promote and support continuous improvement in the quality and safety of health care worldwide It is in this spirit that we welcome this new book on patient centered care As in their previous work the authors demonstrate just how critical it is to develop an organizational culture that puts patients first Peter Carter chief executive officer International Society for Quality in Health Care Design for Dementia, Mental Health and Wellbeing Kristina Niedderer, Geke Ludden, Tom Denning, Vjera Holthoff-Detto, 2024-07-22 This edited volume offers the first overview and reflective discussion of how design can contribute to people's wellbeing and mental health in the context of dementia mental illness and neurodiversity This book explores and promotes holistic salutogenic and preventive strategies that recognise and respond to people's needs wants wishes and rights to further health wellbeing and equality Bringing together years of experience as designers and clinicians the contributors to the book emphasise how design can be a collaborative creative process as well as an outcome of this process and they reveal how this is guided by mental health and design policy Through its three parts the book explores themes of ethics citizenship and power relationships in co design providing an overview of current developments and approaches in co design of the culturally and value sensitive adaptation of design interventions and their applications many of which are a result of co design and of policy and related standards in and for design and mental health In this way the book demonstrates how design can help to support people their care partners and care professionals in promoting mental health and wellbeing and it offers a rich resource on how to create a sustainable future for care in this domain The book provides a unique and holistic overview and resource for designers researchers students policy providers and health and care professionals to help support the development and adoption of person centred design processes and interventions

Implementation of Genomic Medicine in Africa: One continent, one vision Maritha J. Kotze, Tivani Phosa

Mashamba-Thompson, Dawn Stephens, 2023-02-14 Whole genome sequencing as a tool to strengthen foodborne disease surveillance and response. Module 2 World Health Organization, 2023-10-19 Globally there is growing recognition of foodborne diseases as a public health priority From a public health perspective foodborne diseases are largely preventable and can be controlled through effective food safety systems that evaluate hazards along the food chain from production to consumption An integrated food chain surveillance system can detect and monitor foodborne bacteria including antimicrobial resistant bacteria throughout the food chain Whole genome sequencing WGS has the potential to change how we detect and monitor microbial hazards in the food chain as well as how we assess investigate and manage food safety risks It is anticipated that this new technology will help reduce the burden of foodborne diseases given its advantages over previous low resolution typing and detection methods The purpose of this manual is to provide guidance on The capacities that need to be in place before WGS can be useful for foodborne disease surveillance and response The options for implementing WGS and How to implement WGS within existing surveillance and response systems This module discusses how WGS can be used to support foodborne disease outbreak investigations It is meant for countries in the initial stages of laboratory based surveillance for selected foodborne pathogens The module describes how WGS can be used in the investigation of outbreaks detected by existing surveillance systems Public Health Reports ,2010 Medinfo Marius Fieschi, Enrico Coiera, Yu-Chan Jack Li, 2004 A fundamental challenge for medical informatics is to develop and apply better ways of understanding how information technologies and methods can help support the best care for every patient every day given available medical knowledge and resources In order to provide the most effective healthcare possible the activities of teams of health professionals have to be coordinated through well designed processes centered on the needs of patients For information systems to be accepted and used in such an environment they must balance standardization based on shared medical knowledge with the flexibility required for customization to the individual patient Developing innovative approaches to design and build evidence based careflow management systems is essential for providing the knowledge management infrastructure of health care organizations that seeks to increase performance in delivering high quality care services by efficiently exploiting available resources Parallel challenges arise in the organization of research at the biological and clinical levels where the focus on systematically organizing and supporting processes of scientific inquiry by novel informatics methods and databases are in their very early stages These Proceedings of Medinfo 2004 demonstrate the base of knowledge medical informatics professionals will collectively draw upon in the years ahead to meet these challenges and realize opportunities
