A History Of The World In Objects:

A History of the World in 100 Objects Neil MacGregor, 2011 This book takes a dramatically original approach to the history of humanity using objects which previous civilisations have left behind them often accidentally as prisms through which we can explore past worlds and the lives of the men and women who lived in them The book's range is enormous It begins with one of the earliest surviving objects made by human hands a chopping tool from the Olduvai gorge in Africa and ends with an object from the 21st century which represents the world we live in today Neil MacGregor's aim is not simply to describe these remarkable things but to show us their significance how a stone pillar tells us about a great Indian emperor preaching tolerance to his people how Spanish pieces of eight tell us about the beginning of a global currency or how an early Victorian tea set tells us about the impact of empire Each chapter immerses the reader in a past civilisation accompanied by an exceptionally well informed guide Seen through this lens history is a kaleidoscope shifting interconnected constantly surprising and shaping our world today in ways that most of us have never imagined An intellectual and visual feast it is one of the most engrossing and unusual history books published in years

A History of the World in 100 Objects Mark Kilfoyle, 2010 A History of Sport in Europe in 100 Objects Daphné Bolz, Michael Krüger, 2023-04-27

Modern sport originated in Europe During the age of Enlightenment gymnastics and athletics from Antiquity were rediscovered and changed into new cultural and educational forms which shaped both the body and the mind The industrialisation of Britain and Europe eventually introduced organisational patterns that gave sport not only a name but also a new structure This was a distinctive product of European civilisation which spread across the modern world The 100 objects that are collected here are both material objects and forms of communication which explore the transformation and diversity of sports games and physical education in Europe whether for training performing or as part of other forms of celebration or festivity This book is the first attempt to create a kaleidoscopic history of European sport through its rich material culture and emerged from a desire to develop transnational research in sports history 110 authors from 39 countries have participated in a genuinely pan European project introducing the reader to the fascinating range of people institutions and places which made up the world of modern European sport

A History of the World in 100 Objects, 2018 A History of the World in 100 Objects Neil MacGregor, 2011 Traces the stories of one hundred human innovations to explain their pivotal role in shaping civilization from weapons and the domestication of cows to currency and music

Embarrassment of Being Human Benjamin Boysen, 2024-12-24 With the message that everything in a sense is alive thus allowing us to join forces with new politico ethical communities stretching across human and nonhuman realms the new materialisms have captivated the minds of many academics artists and intellectuals by stressing that it is time to return to a premodern mindset and discard modernity and its concepts of secularization autonomy and finitude The Embarrassment of Being Human not only demonstrates how these magical materialisms are beset by grave theoretical and practical inconsistencies and self contradictions It also demonstrates how their demand for humans to step down and allow for an emancipation of things qualifies the new materialisms as a metaphysics of neoliberalism that reproduces and fortifies the self contradictions rampant in the current neoliberal hegemony While helping us to gain a comprehensive understanding of the tenets of the eerie ills of our epoch the critique of the new materialisms can furthermore inspire us to appreciate how the exact inversion of the new materialist complex amounts to a revitalization of the modern project A revitalization that is critical to think our epoch differently Education and the Kyoto School of Philosophy Paul Standish, Naoko

Saito, 2012-07-04 The work of the Kyoto School represents one of the few streams of philosophy that originate in Japan Following the cultural renaissance of the Meiji Restoration after Japan's period of closure to the outside world 1600 1868 this distinctly Japanese thought found expression especially in the work of Kitaro Nishida Keiji Nishitani and Hajime Tanabe Above all this is a philosophy of experience of human becoming and of transformation In pursuit of these themes it brings an inheritance of Western philosophy that encompasses William James Hume Kant and Husserl as well as the psychology of Wilhelm Wundt into conjunction with Eastern thought and practice Yet the legacy and continuing reception of the Kyoto School have not been easy in part because of the coincidence of its prominence with the rise of Japanese fascism In light of this then the School's ongoing relationship to the thought of Heidegger has an added salience And yet this remains a rich philosophical line of thought with remarkable salience for educational practice The present collection focuses on the Kyoto School in three unique ways First it concentrates on the School's distinctive account of human becoming Second it examines the way that in the work of its principal exponents diverse traditions of thought in philosophy and education are encountered and fused Third and with a broader canvas it considers why the rich implications of the Kyoto School for philosophy and education have not been more widely appreciated and it seeks to remedy this The first part of the book introduces the historical and philosophical background of the Kyoto School illustrating its importance especially for aesthetic education while the second part looks beyond this to explore the convergence of relevant streams of philosophy East and West ranging from the Noh play and Buddhist practices to American transcendentalism and post structuralism Talks to the King's Children. Being the Second Series of Object Sermons to Children Sylvanus Stall,1896 Scientific History Elena Aronova,2021-04-02 Introduction The quest for scientific history Scientific history and the Russian locale Nikolai Vavilov genogeography and history s past future Julian Huxley s cold wars The UNESCO History of Mankind Cultural and Scientific Development Project Information socialism historical informatics and the markets Epilogue Possible Worlds of Fiction and History Lubomír Doležel,2010-04-05 With Possible Worlds of Fiction and History Lubomír Doležel reexamines the claim made first by Roland Barthes and then popularized by Hayden White that there is no fundamental distinction between fiction and history Doležel rejects this assertion and demonstrates how literary and discourse theory can help the historian to restate the difference between fiction and history He challenges scholars to reassess the postmodern viewpoint by reintroducing the idea of possible worlds Possible worlds semantics reveals that possible worlds of fiction and possible worlds of history differ in their origins cultural functions and structural and semantic features Doležel's book is the first systematic application of this idea to the theory and philosophy of history Possible Worlds of Fiction and History is the crowning work of one of literary theory's most engaged thinkers A History of the World in 100 Objects British Museum,2016-02-01 Handbook of Technology in Financial Services Jessica Keyes,1998-12-18 The calculus of IT support for the banking securities and insurance industries has changed dramatically and rapidly over the past few years Unheard of just a few years ago corporate intranets are now used for everything from job postings to enhanced team communications Whole new departments are being created to support e commerce And the Internet Intranet Extranet triple whammy is the most critical component of most financial IT shops At the same time new intelligent agents stand ready to take on such diverse functions as customer profiling and data mining Get a handle on all these new and newer ripples with Handbook of Technology in Financial Services Here in this exhaustive new guide and reference book industry guru Jessica Keyes gives you the no nonsense scoop on not just the tried and true IT tools of today but also the up and coming hot technologies of tomorrow and how to plan for them Keyes gives you extensive example driven explanations of such topics as digital check imaging and Internet based billing e commerce and Internet banking portfolio management systems for the 21st century GIS technology in financial services and much more Focusing on problems from both a technology perspective and a business perspective the Handbook also addresses challenges and solutions associated with supporting the self service revolution by servicing kiosks and ATMs efficiently and economically straight through processing for the securities industry outsourcing business communications in the insurance industry distributed integration as a cost effective alternative to data warehousing and putting inbound fax automation to work in financial organizations Packed with real world case studies and practical solutions to problems confronting financial services IT managers every day of the week Handbook of Technology in Financial Services covers everything from system security to IT support for the Web marketing of financial services In short it is a compendium of essential information no professional can afford to be without Engendering objects Anna-Karina Hermkens, 2013-07-01

Engendering objects explores social and cultural dynamics among Maisin people in Collingwood Bay Papua New Guinea through the lens of material culture Focusing upon the visually stimulating decorated barkcloths that are used as male and female garments gifts and commodities it explores the relationships between these cloths and Maisin people The main question is how barkcloth as an object made by women engenders people s identities such as gender personhood clan and tribe through its manufacturing and use This book describes in detail how barkcloth tapa not only visualizes and expresses but also materializes and defines people s multiple identities By following the object and how it is made and used in the performance of life cycle rituals in exchanges and in church festivities this interaction between people and things and how they are mutually constituted becomes visible How are women s bodies and minds linked with the production of barkcloth How do cloths produced by women both establish and contest clan identity In what ways is the commodification of barkcloth related to gender dynamics Barkcloth and its associated designs show how gender ideologies and the socio material constructions of identity are performed and as such developed established and contested The narratives of both men and women reveal the ways in which barkcloth provides a link with the past and dreams for the future The author argues that the cloths and their designs embody dynamics of Maisin culture and in particular of Maisin gender relations In contributing to the current debates on the anthropology of art this study offers an alternative way of understanding the significance of an object like decorated barkcloth in shaping and defining people s identities within a local colonial and postcolonial setting of Papua New Guinea Engendering Objects is among the most comprehensive and innovative new works emerging from Melanesia examining the intimate connections between material culture cultural identity and gendered personhood Drawing upon extensive ethnographic fieldwork archival research and examination of museum collections Anna Karina Hermkens traces the enduring yet innovative place of tapa barkcloth among the Maisin people Written with warm compassion and immediacy the book is a theoretically provocative accessible and compelling portrait of changing life in a Papua New Guinean village society John Barker University of British Columbia This book makes a most welcome contribution to the study of the materiality by showing how gender is performed in the sensuous terms of clothing food and the exchange of objects Anna Karina Hermkens accomplishes this with enviable care and intellectual resources and a prose and ethnography that make the book a pleasure to read David Morgan Duke University Anna Karina Hermkens takes us to look at designs on bark cloth from Papua New Guinea through a magnifying glass A fascinating perspective on material culture evolves Beyond the art work we discover individuals mainly women painting their stories about who they and their beloved are as women and men as traditional members of a clan and also what they head for as strugglers in a new economy driven world Christian
