Topics covered include exploring boundary between deviance and criminality in the lives of young people who are deeply involved in the youth culture show how youth culture is not a set of categories so much as it is a dynamic and creative response to the confusions of growing up in modern society Major Criminological Theories Liquan Cao,2004 The book is a reference text book in one It criticizes the current bifurcation of theory and methodology and presents the history of scientific criminology It then describes briefly each major criminological theory and lists how the key concepts of each of these theories are measured All the major studies that test these theories are reviewed and evaluated The book may serve as a reference book or a guideline in testing criminological theories The book itself does not make attempts to advance any new theory but tries to make a contribution to the criminological literature by strengthening the testability of existing criminological theories That is it contributes to the construction of a more scientific approach to criminology and it allows for a more penetrating analysis of existing problems of scientific criminology and of the ways to address these problems

Emotions, Decision-Making and Mass Atrocities Olaoluwa Olusanya,2016-05-06 This book rehumanizes perpetrators of mass atrocities At present a victim perpetrator dichotomy appears to be the dominant paradigm perpetrators have either been mechanistically dehumanized that is perceived as unemotional hard hearted and conforming and thereby lacking the core features of human nature or alternatively they have been animalistically dehumanized In other words they are seen as immoral unintelligent lacking self control and likened to animals Within sociology and criminology the dominant view is that genocide and other mass atrocities are committed by technologically lobotomized perpetrators Somehow the process of rationalization is believed to have transformed these people from emotionally healthy people into hollow soulless shells of human beings or zombies devoid of a full range of normal emotions These people are considered bereft of any ability to reason think or feel yet ambulant and able to respond to surrounding stimuli However it is difficult to imagine crime especially those involving a group of people working together for the duration of a particular criminal activity without emotions For instance there is ample evidence suggesting that both crimes of passion and pre meditated crimes involve emotional arousal Furthermore research in fields such as evolutionary biology psychology and sociology of work and organizations suggest that emotions are essential for human progress and survival In addition emotions help us make the right call in risky and uncertain situations in other words the majority of real life situations There is therefore a need to revisit existing assumptions around the role of emotions in mass atrocities A Primer in the Sociology of Crime S. Giora Shoham,John P. Hoffmann,1991 An English language adaptation of a Hebrew textbook introduces theories of crime and delinquency drawn from sociology Chapter topics include criminology and social deviance theoretical and methodological issues in criminology ecological theories strain theories differential association and learning theories control theories social reactions to crime conflict and radical perspectives on crime and recent developments Criminal Justice Jarrod Gilbert,Greg Newbold,2017-12-11 In this major new textbook leading scholars from criminology history journalism law psychology sociology and other fields take students and general readers inside New Zealand's criminal justice system. The authors begin with an introduction to the history and current state of crime policing and prisons in New Zealand; they then explain the workings of criminal procedure from evidence to sentencing and finally they address key current issues such as Maori and the justice system, youth and gangs, psychology and the media. For students and general readers, this book tackles the big questions: How can crime be explained? Is crime rising or falling, and if so why? How do the police operate? How do the courts work? What is the meaning of a life sentence? What is the link between crime and mental instability? Why are Maori over-represented in the criminal justice system? How do we deal with youthful offenders? How do judicial miscarriages arise? Do the stories we read about crime in the media reflect reality? And how does justice operate in the criminal underworld? This book is an important new introduction to New Zealand's criminal justice system, from crime and policing to the courts, aimed at students and general readers.

The Criminal Event Vincent Sacco, Leslie W. Kennedy, 2002. Sacco and Kennedy is a concise, economical text that offers a unifying element to aid student understanding of the material presented. The organizing tool, the criminal event, presents crime as consisting of many facets and it shows the relationships between the various facets of crime. With an emphasis on spatial analysis, the authors examine crime from all sides: what motivates people to commit crime, who suffers and how, and how society should respond.

Voices from the Field Carl E. Pope, Rickie Dwaine Lovell, Steven Gerard Brandl, 2001. This reader, organized by type of methodology (experimental, survey, and field research), analysis of records and secondary data analysis, offers case studies and commentary about research design, varying research approaches, the process of measurement, and the concepts of reliability and validity. The book includes 20 articles drawn from major scholarly journals, each accompanied by a Commentary section written by the original author. The commentaries provide a behind-the-scenes perspective, discussions of why a particular methodology was chosen, problems that occurred, and how the research results differed from expectations. Each article also has an original introduction and conclusion section meant to help readers understand the nature, issues, and conduct of the study.

Forthcoming Books Rose Arny, 2003. Introduction to Criminology Frank E. Hagan, 2002. New edition of a text that introduces criminology with an emphasis on theory, method, and criminal behavior. In the 14 chapters, Hagan of Mercyhurst College covers basic concepts, research methods that identify and evaluate the sources of data on crime and criminals, general patterns and variations in
