A Green Grannys Garden:

Granny's Garden Cynthia Engel, 2010 It is never too late to make your dreams come true as Granny discovers with the help of her friends young and old Watch Granny's dream unfold on every page A Green Granny's Garden Fionna Hill, 2010-08-31 Urban gardening for beginners While Fionna will be the first to tell you she's not actually a Granny in the biological sense she is most definitely a wise woman of the world who meets all the criteria for anyone's favourite Gran When she decided to improve her health and grow her own food she had to find somewhere to grow it Living in urban Auckland severely limited her options While she could manage window boxes of micro greens she yearned for more space and was utterly delighted to eventually find herself with a plot in the Grey Lynn Community Garden Written from her experiences over the course of a year give or take a few weeks she documents the sheer delight and pleasure of exploring urban gardening as a beginner in a communal environment the experience has brought her immense joy and some wild and wonderful moments of unexpected humour In a breathtakingly honest direct and fabulously original and delightfully wacky way she takes the reader by the hand and shares her exploits adventures misadventures successes failures and enthusiasms as she discovers what works and what doesn't Wonderfully honest supremely life affirming and a book for gardeners and non gardeners alike if you aren't inspired by the end of A GREEN GRANNY'S GARDEN to go forth and plant then we're dreadfully sorry you might as well go and put both feet in the grave right now Granny's Garden Donald Weis, A Marvel of Blue and Green Deana Gendron, 2010-07-15 If you could would you save the world Ruby Ann's adventure begins when she is sent to live with Granny beginning a spiritual quest whereupon she learns the true meaning of family how we all are intrinsically connected and that even the smallest stone causes a ripple far beyond its size Green Queen Marci Peschke, 2014 Earth Day is right around the corner and Kylie Jean is working hard to be green and take care of the Earth Now the Chips Are Down Alison Gazzard, 2024-05-21 The story of a pioneering microcomputer its beginnings as part of a national Computer Literary Project its innovative hardware and its creative uses In 1982 the British Broadcasting Corporation launched its Computer Literacy Project intended to introduce interested adults to the world of computers and computing The BBC accompanied this initiative with television programs courses books and software an early experiment in multi platform education The BBC along with Acorn Computers also introduced the BBC Microcomputer which would be at the forefront of the campaign The BBC Micro was designed to meet the needs of users in homes and schools to demystify computing and to counter the general pessimism among the media in Britain about technology In this book Alison Gazzard looks at the BBC Micro examining the early capabilities of multi platform content generation and consumption and the multiple literacies this approach enabled not only in programming and software creation but also in accessing information across a range of media and in do it yourself computing She links many of these early developments to current new media practices Gazzard looks at games developed for the BBC Micro including Granny's Garden an educational game for primary schools and Elite the seminal space trading game She considers the shift in focus from hardware to peripherals describing the Teletext Adapter as an early model for software distribution and the Domesday Project which combined texts video and still photographs as a hypermedia like experience Gazzard s account shows the BBC Micro not only as a vehicle for various literacies but also as a user oriented machine that pushed the boundaries of what could be achieved in order to produce something completely new
