A Man of His Word Kathleen Fuller, 2023-08-22 Moriah's heart will only be safe with a man of his word In just a few short months Moriah Miller's perfect life unravels Newly wed and newly pregnant Moriah is abandoned by her husband Levi He's left her his family and their faith without a backward glance The community stunned rushes to the young woman's aid But there is someone who feels more than just sympathy for Moriah Gabriel Miller Levi's twin longs for an intimate commitment that might someday bind them to one another Convinced of the impossibility of his dream Gabriel settles for a mere friendship with the woman he loves Moriah bravely goes on with her life adjusting to her new role in their tight knit Amish community and preparing for the birth of her child She is unaware that her brief marriage once idealized as the happiest time of her life may have been merely a shadow of the kind of love God has created for her A love that can mend the soul renew her heart and give her a future filled with hope if she'll only let it A Man of His Word Sarah M.

Miriam Macgregor, 2011-07-15 Promises to keep Blake didn't know why April Lindsay had suddenly accepted a job in town but he was sure there had to be a man involved And just how did six year old Tim fit into April's life Blake sensed a mystery and he vowed to get to the bottom of it There was something about April that infuriated the hell out of him and he knew the feeling was mutual They were also both aware of another emotion at play between them attraction Where would it all lead Blake was determined it wouldn't be down the aisle and if there was one thing April had learned about him it was that he was a man of his word Two Secrets and A Man of His Word Hesba Stretton, 2020-09-28 About a stone's throw from the last house in the small country town of Armitage stood a cottage which had scarcely changed in aspect since it had been built two hundred years ago The gambrel roof was high pitched and closely thatched with deep eaves under which the swallows built their nests the little elbow in the slope of the gable gave it a quaint look as if the cottage had drawn a hood over its head

Along the top of the roof grew a row of purple flags which contrasted well with the brown thatch and golden lichens. Casements with small diamond windows glistened in the light. A garden full of old-fashioned flowers ran down from the road to the little porch which sheltered the door from rough weather and made a pleasant and shady seat in the summer. It was certainly the most picturesque dwelling in the neighbourhood. What is the name of your cottage, asked an artist who had just finished a sketch of it. Oh, It hasn't any name, sir, answered Joanna Terry; it's nothing only our home. She had been born there and had not been away from it for a whole week at a time for fifty-five years. She hardly knew any other house. The ground floor of the cottage contained a large old-fashioned living room with two very small ones opening out of it, one of which was a kind of scullery and the other the bedroom in which she had been born and where she had slept all her life. Under the gable of the thatched roof there was a large attic covering the whole area of the cottage with sloping ceiling and two windows, one at each end looking east and west. Joanna's mind could not grasp the idea of any improvement in the arrangement of her little homestead. The tall spare old woman was still very active and alert with an eye keen to detect every weed venturing to grow in the garden and every speck of dust that might blow in through the open window and door. Scarcely a bud opened on the roses and clematis climbing up the half-timber wall without her notice. The hollyhocks and sunflowers standing as erect as herself were every one known to her. The potato patch behind the cottage which her husband Amos Terry cultivated in his leisure time, the long rows of peas and beans, the beds of onions and lettuce, the fruit trees which paid their rent, they were almost like children to her. Indoors the old oak settle by the fireside, the oak table and dresser all shining with the active work of her own hands, teemed with associations and memories which formed the sum and substance of her life. The roof-tree was not more planted to the spot than Joanna was. Still more firmly rooted there, if possible, was her only child, Charlotte, who lived in the pleasant attic under the roof. She was lame and an invalid from a spinal complaint, the result of a fall when she was a little child. It was very seldom that she felt well enough to creep painfully down the rude staircase to the ground floor. But from her two windows her eye could overlook both of the garden patches lying before and behind the house and she knew everything growing in them as well as her mother did. Eastward her view was bounded by a low ridge of hill above which the morning clouds hung tinged with lovely hues some time before the sun showed itself over the wooded outline. To the west there was a wide stretch of undulating land with meadows and coppices and scattered cottages ending far off in a glimpse of the sea which often glittered like gold under the setting of the sun. Charlotte seldom missed seeing both sunrise and sunset. She was thirty years of age now, pallid and emaciated with the pathetic look in her eyes which cripples and deformed people so often have. She looked almost as old as her mother. The mother and daughter had been slowly changing places for the last fifteen years. Charlotte was the adviser now, the head of the little household, the referee to whom every question was brought. She was always brooding over schemes for her father and mother's comfort and suggesting gently what their actions should be from day to day. Joanna was still young in spirit, apt to act impetuously, occasionally giving way to almost girlish fits of temper which she confessed and repented of by Charlotte's bedside. It did not seem possible there could ever come a secret between these two.

A Man of His Word Dave Duncan, 2017-07-11 A young couple battles forces determined to keep them apart in this high fantasy series by one of the leading masters of epic fantasy. Publishers Weekly. These four fantasy novels of love and adventure follow the exploits of childhood friends Inos and Rap as their feelings are tested by the direst of circumstances. But while abduction, magic, and imprisonment conspire to separate them, the two remain steadfast in their determination to be together.

Magic Casement Inos enjoys an idyllic childhood with her friend Rap, but friendship between a princess and a stable boy can never be simple. Soon they are thrust into adulthood and a magical world full of infinite surprises.

Faery Lands Forlorn When Inos is abducted through the magic casement and Rap tries to follow her, they arrive in two very strange new lands. With Rap in Faerie and Inos in Zark, they are at opposite ends of the world, but that doesn't stop the young stable boy from heading to Zark to rescue his princess. And Inos is equally determined to head home to Krasnegar to claim her kingdom.

Perilous Seas Hunted by the fearsome warlock wardens who rule the world, Inos is convinced that Rap has died. Little does she know he is alive and, with the aid of his magic wand, trying to bring happiness to his beloved queen. But when the evil Nordland raider Kalkor arrives in port, Rap's plans begin to fall apart.

Emperor and Clown With Inos married to the wrong man and Rap dying in a dungeon, their cause seems hopeless. Only Aunt Kade refuses to admit defeat. Taking events into her own hands, she knows exactly the five men she can coerce into helping her.

A Man of the Word Jill Morgan, 2010-04-01 Since the death six years ago of that prince of Bible expositors, G. Campbell Morgan, there has been incessant demand from the Christian public for the publication of an official biography. Such a work was not to be lightly undertaken or swiftly completed for it must be of heroic proportions in keeping with the character of the man. Now it is here, the product of Dr. Morgan's personal diary, the family's own records, and the contributions of a host of friends, the world around Dr. Morgan had four sons, all ministers. This book is the work of the wife of the eldest son and is beautifully printed and illustrated. It is a success story in the finest sense of the term. Rejected for ordination while he was quite young for what was considered the inferior quality of his preaching, Campbell Morgan, by native ability and laborious toil, achieved international fame. Under his preaching, the Bible literally sprang into life, and multitudes of people were enthralled. So great was the demand for his sermons that his books gained circulation throughout the English-speaking world. This biography deserves a permanent place in every Christian's library. It is the record of one who adorned the Gospel ministry, a profound thinker, an inspiring speaker, and a reverent humble servant of Christ.

A Men's Ministry for the Small Church Karl W. Kloppmann, 2004-03 This book is a thorough and well-documented study on why churches need to develop effective men's ministries. Containing a wealth of vital information, this is a solid treatment of the biblical basis for male leadership in the church. The thrust of the book is that the development of men is the slow but sure way to build the church, for men either positively or negatively impact every aspect of church and family life. Jesus invested his life in a small group of men, and those men changed the world
