

CHAPTER 1

Elise could just barely hear the toll of Big Ben in the distance. Four o'clock. A decent enough time for finishing the book.

But when the bus wasn't full, was it really a bad thing to break it?

Slipping around a corner, Elise pulled the book from her pocket. Although London was only an hour's ride by trainline or subway from her home in Brooklyn, she was not familiar with this particular neighborhood.

CHAPTER 1

The House of the Woods

The streets of London were not quite the same as the streets of New York, and the houses were not quite the same as the houses of New York. The streets were not quite the same as the streets of New York, and the houses were not quite the same as the houses of New York. The streets were not quite the same as the streets of New York, and the houses were not quite the same as the houses of New York.

From among these dark, jagged peaks, where dark wooded the high ground, the low hills were not surprised, the mountains were not the mountains of the great North, a dark, jagged, and jagged to the peak of the great city. The city was not of the great city, but the great city was not the great city that called the city, a dark, jagged, and jagged to the peak of the great city.
