Abstract Theory: Constructing Frameworks of Philosophy

Abstract: This study is the study of first steps in which interacting clusters of numerous agents, each with its own set of rules, are allowed to interact. The results show that the system evolves to a state of self-organization, which is characterized by a power-law distribution of the number of agents in each cluster. This distribution is robust to changes in the rules of the agents, and is also robust to changes in the number of agents. The results suggest that the system is self-organizing, and that the power-law distribution is a characteristic feature of such systems.
