Addressing Epistemic Injustice in Mental Health Karen Newbigging,Anthony Salla,Ulla-Karin Schön,Colin King,2024-03-20 Epistemic injustice was conceptualized by Fricker as a form of social injustice which occurs when people s authority as a knower is ignored dismissed or marginalized It is attracting increasing interest in the mental health field because of the asymmetries of power between people using mental health services and mental health professionals People experiencing mental health distress are particularly vulnerable to epistemic injustice as a consequence of deeply embedded social stigma negative stereotyping and assumed irrationality This is amplified by other forms of stereotyping or structural discrimination including racism misogyny and homophobia Consequently individual testimonies may be discounted as both irrational and unreliable Epistemic injustice also operates systemically reflecting social and demographic characteristics such a race gender sexuality or disability or age

A Siberian History of Soviet Film Caroline Damiens,2024-09-05 In A Siberian History of Soviet Film Caroline Damiens explores how the depictions of the indigenous Peoples of the North in Soviet cinema and television evolved between 1920 and 1980 Damiens combines a detailed analysis of key works such as Forest People 1928 Igdenbu 1930 Dersu Uzala 1961 1975 Tymancha s Friend 1969 and The Most Beautiful Ships 1972 with primary sources like press articles archives and interviews to reveal how these cinematic portrayals were created and negotiated providing insight into the concepts of progress and authenticity in the Soviet context She emphasises the role of indigenous individuals in shaping their cinematic image both in front of and behind the camera highlighting the works of lesser known figures like Suntsai Geonka Zinaida Pikunova and Iurii Rytkeu In doing so Damiens emphasises the multifaceted nature of film where interpretations differ based on the perspectives of those involved Using a decolonial approach and drawing from extensive archival materials Damiens prompts a re evaluation of the Soviet cinematic past and present by centring indigenous voices in the narrative In doing so she provides a thorough exploration of the intricate relationship between culture representation and identity in Soviet cinema

Methods of Engagement of Dementia Care Users in Research and Practice Development W. George Kernohan, Suzanne Timmons, Anthea Innes, David Edvardsson, 2025-10-23 Dementia is a complex and chronic condition associated with significant physical cognitive and emotional challenges The burden of dementia weighs not only on people living with dementia but also on their families and caregivers The development of new effective and sustainable dementia care interventions therefore requires the active engagement of all service users in research studies and in the implementation of research findings in the dementia care practice while ensuring that interventions are tailored to meet individual needs and preferences However there remains a need to build innovative methods to engage service users in the development and evaluation of dementia care interventions The goal of this Research Topic is to explore and advance the use of innovative methods to engage dementia care users in research and practice development Specifically we aim to highlight best practices and approaches to involving people living with dementia and their families in the design implementation and evaluation of dementia care interventions with a focus on participatory co design and other collaborative approaches to research and practice development We welcome the submission of any type of manuscript supported by the journal including Original Research Review etc addressing a range of topics related to stakeholder engagement in the development and evaluation of dementia care interventions These topics may include but are not limited to the following The design and implementation of participatory co design or other collaborative approaches to research and practice development in dementia care including methods to identify and prioritize the needs and preferences of dementia care users and their families The role of patient and public involvement PPI in the development and evaluation of dementia care interventions including the evaluation of PPI approaches and their impact on intervention design and outcomes Strategies to engage and support caregivers in the co design and evaluation of dementia care interventions including best practices in recruitment training and building capacity The evaluation of the impact of stakeholder engagement on the acceptability feasibility effectiveness and sustainability of dementia care research and interventions Ethical and practical considerations in the use of participatory and co design approaches to dementia care research and practice development Suitable theoretically sound frameworks to inform and guide the engagement of people with dementia and their family members in research that intends to enhance their lives

Forthcoming Books Rose Army, 1997 Materialities of Age and Ageing: Concepts of a Material Gerontology Grit Höppner, Monika Urban, 2019-06-18 In gerontological research the understanding of age and ageing changed in the last decade Biologic determined explanations no longer prevail in this research field. Instead, ideas of social constructivism are frequently used. These ideas define the state of age and the process of ageing as social constructions steeped in social and cultural assumptions, ascriptions and expectations. From a social constructivist perspective, age and ageing are not just identified as dependency deficit and need for care as it was foremost accelerated from a biological perspective but with the life course and thus with individual lifestyles, experiences, attitudes and practices as well as institutional and economic structures. A prominent social constructivist concept is doing age. Similar to doing gender, the concept of doing age assumes age as taking place in the form of a social praxis within everyday life interactions between people and thus in performances embedded in discourses through which social hierarchies and ideals proceed. Despite the paradigm shift that social constructivist concepts enable in gerontological thinking, they reveal their blind spot when it comes to the materiality of ageing and thus to fleshy, sensual experiences, human and non-human ontologies and agencies. Addressing these materialities of ageing brings up its own critique on definitions of ageing bodies and material environments. This framing does not presume that age and ageing are solely products of human-to-human interactions or those of formative environments or of discourses. Rather, humans, non-humans and discourses become essential parts of ageing processes. Such a material framing enables us new insights into forms of age and ageing and thus offers an opportunity for scholars to engage critically with materialities of age and ageing. This eBook explores theoretical, methodological and empirical concepts of such a Material Gerontology.
