Department of Commerce. Office of Technical Services,1963 A Generation of Excellence Robert Craig Brown,2007-01-01 The Canadian Institute for Advanced Research originated at the University of Toronto in the early 1980s Since that time it has gone from a small independent centre to an important and revered institution with a significant role in the study of sciences social sciences and humanities in Canada A Generation of Excellence is a detailed history of the CIAR from its humble beginnings to its ascension as one of the most important research organizations in the country Beginning in the summer of 1982 with the CIAR merely a conception in the minds of senior scholars at the University of Toronto Craig Brown takes us through the process of realization detailing the early years of the Institute under the presidency of Dr Fraser Mustard From early struggles to eventual triumphs Brown examines the CIAR s pursuit of an ethos to explore fundamental issues in the social sciences and humanities by funding teams of researchers showing how success was painstakingly achieved The rise of the CIAR is deftly illustrated by pairing its earliest projects with the twentieth anniversary Congress held in 2002 in honour of the Institute and two decades of research A Generation of Excellence tells the story of one of the country s most remarkable institutions

Treaties in Force: A List of Treaties and Other International Agreements of the United States in Force on January 1, 2004 State Department, Office of the Legal Adviser, Treaty Affairs Staff, 2005-03-08 State Department Publication 11183 Released October 2004 Lists treaties and other international agreements of the United States on record in the Department of State on January 1 2004 which had not expired by their terms or which had not been denounced by the parties replaced or superseded by other agreements or otherwise definitely terminated Published annually Item 900 A

U.S. Government Research Reports, 1963 From Medical Chemistry to Biochemistry Robert E. Kohler, 1982-05-31 This penetrating case study of institution building and entrepreneurship in science shows how a minor medical speciality evolved into a large and powerful academic discipline Drawing extensively on little used archival sources the author analyses in detail how biomedical science became a central part of medical training and practice The book shows how biochemistry was defined as a distinct discipline by the programmatic vision of individual biochemists and of patrons and competitors in related disciplines It shows how discipline builders used research programmes as strategies that they adapted to the opportunities offered by changing educational markets and national medical reform movements in the United States Britain and Germany The author argues that the priorities and styles of various departments and schools of biochemistry reflect systematic social relationships between that discipline and biology chemistry and medicine Science is shaped by its service roles in particular local contexts This is the central theme The author s view of the political economy of modern science will be of interest to historians and social scientists scientific and medical practitioners and anyone interested in the ecology of knowledge in scientific institutions and professions
