The Report: Indonesia 2014 Oxford Business Group, 2014-05-21 On the cusp of 2014 national elections and the 2015 integration of the ASEAN Economic Community Indonesia is poised to continue its rapid economic expansion While the country's natural resources are still plentiful by channelling foreign direct investment into the right areas the government is ensuring that true potential in terms of value and manufacturing is achieved By inviting targeted investment and adapting existing regulatory frameworks the government has taken significant steps to facilitate foreign investment and the development of value added industries Indonesia is a country renowned for its abundance of natural resources which include oil gas coal nickel tin copper gold and silver While slightly down on the previous year the country's total oil production for 2012 stood at 861 000 barrels per day accounting for approximately 1.2% of the world's oil production Indonesia remains the world's largest exporter of thermal coal exporting a total of 304m tonnes in 2012 to countries such as Japan South Korea China and India The country continues to be the dominant nation in South east Asia politically and economically and its participation within ASEAN in particular will likely determine the shape of regional integration with the introduction of the ASEAN Economic Community AEC in 2015 looming as the bloc's next major milestone

The Public Understanding of Law Peter Smith, 2025-05-14 This insightful book discusses how law schools engage with the public to develop their understanding of the law It shows that effective engagement necessitates recognising the people involved as a shared community working towards both individual and collective goals Routledge Handbook of National and Regional Ocean Policies

Biliana Cicin-Sain, David Vanderzwaag, Miriam C. Balgos, 2015-05-15 This comprehensive handbook prepared by leading ocean policy academics and practitioners from around the world presents in depth analyses of the experiences of fifteen developed and developing nations and four key regions of the world that have taken concrete steps toward cross cutting and integrated national and regional ocean policy All chapters follow a common framework for policy analysis While most coastal nations of the world already have a variety of sectoral policies in place to manage different uses of the ocean such as shipping fishing oil and gas development in the last two decades the coastal nations covered in the book have undertaken concerted efforts to articulate and implement an integrated ecosystem based vision for the governance of ocean areas under their jurisdiction This includes goals and procedures to harmonize existing uses and laws to foster sustainable development of ocean areas to protect biodiversity and vulnerable resources and ecosystems and to coordinate the actions of the many government agencies that are typically involved in oceans affairs The book highlights the serious conflicts of use in most national ocean zones and the varying attempts by nations to follow the prescriptions emanating from the 1982 UN Law of the Sea Convention and the outcomes of the 1992 2002 and 2012 sustainable development summits The interrelationship among uses and processes in the coast and ocean requires that ocean governance be integrated precautionary and anticipatory Overall the book provides a definitive state of the art review and analysis of national and regional ocean policies around the world

Regional Environmental Governance and Avenues for the Ecosystem Approach to management in the Baltic Sea Area Sara Söderström, 2017-01-17 This thesis explores the avenues for the ecosystem approach to management in the Baltic Sea Region This region is one of the most contaminated water bodies in the world although the first Regional Seas Convention was created here and the region has a long history of cooperation and environmental protection The current environmental governance arrangements are examined with specific focus on governance structures cross sectoral integration and ecological boundaries The ecosystem approach to management as both a tool and vision of holistic management of natural resources is traced through the evolution of environmental governance as well as its manifestation in contemporary environmental policies in the region. It is found that the major EU directives as well as HELCOM policies promote the ecosystem approach and that its presence has increased in recent years; it is now the major guiding principle in European marine governance. However, the governance structures impede implementation in different ways. The environmental problem areas in the region all require different governance arrangements, thus obstructing a holistic approach. The environmental problems per se also affect each other, necessitating far-reaching sectoral integration and cross-border cooperation, which at present is the major obstacle regarding implementation. The contemporary trends combining solid regionalisation through HELCOM with increased Europeanisation and macro regionalisation by different EU initiatives offer some promise, but the cross-sectoral impediments must be resolved if the ecosystem approach is to become a practical approach and not just a policy principle.

An IUCN situation analysis of terrestrial and freshwater fauna in West and Central Africa, 2015-06-01. This situation analysis was undertaken to inform responses to several resolutions made at the 5th World Conservation Congress in 2012 about the plight of large vertebrates in West and Central Africa. It draws on a wide range of information to provide information on the status of these species, important sites, pressures, legislation, the effectiveness of protected areas, and both community-based incentives for conservation and institutional responses. The overriding conclusion is of substantial wildlife declines and inadequate responses to either long-standing pressures or rapidly escalating threats that have emerged in recent years.

Marine Transboundary Conservation and Protected Areas
Peter Mackelworth, 2016-04-28. The marine environment does not naturally respect arbitrary international boundaries. The establishment and management of transboundary marine protected areas therefore presents major governance challenges. This book analyses a series of marine transboundary conservation initiatives embedded in varying contextual situations to examine the underlying reasons for their success or failure. Utilising an adapted pathways of influence framework, it provides insights into the development of marine transboundary conservation initiatives, looking at the effectiveness of international rules, international norms, and discourse, market forces, and direct access to policy making. Examples come from a wide range of jurisdictions, including territorial seas, continental shelves, exclusive economic zones, and areas beyond national jurisdiction. Case studies include initiatives in the Coral Triangle, West Africa, Central America, the Wadden Sea, the Red Sea, and the Mediterranean Sea. In addition, the authors assess the potential for developing wider international cooperation as a result of relationships forged through involvement within these marine transboundary conservation initiatives.

The Future of the Law of the Sea
Gemma Andreone, 2017-03-30. This book is open access under a CC BY-NC 4.0 license. It explores the diverse phenomena which are challenging the international law of the sea today, using the unique perspective of a simultaneous analysis of the national, individual, and common interests at stake. This perspective, which all the contributors bear in mind when treating their own topic, also constitutes a useful element in the effort to bring today's legal complexity and fragmentation to a homogenous vision of the sustainable use of the marine environment and of its resources and also of the international and national response to maritime crimes The volume analyzes the relevant legal frameworks and recent developments focusing on the competing interests which have influenced State jurisdiction and other regulatory processes An analysis of the competing interests and their developments allows us to identify actors and relevant legal and institutional contexts retracing how and when these elements have changed over time
