Online platforms - new actors of the food chain Amina Lattanzi, 2023-11-07 Food e commerce is a fast developing market. Regrettably the number of products exchanged on the web that may be harmful to consumers is also steadily rising. This development poses challenges for controlling authorities and legislators in their mission to protect EU consumers' health and economic interests, leading to a lively discussion on the status and role of e platforms in the age of food online. Responsibilities and liabilities in the online food chain are not yet clearly defined and seem to be stuck between stringent safety regulation and immunity to promote innovation. Standing at the intersection of law, food and digital technology, online platforms' new actors of the food chain look at the development of food online and documents how and whether EU regulators and courts have been addressing the many challenges this development raises, especially in terms of food information and who is responsible for it.

Information Trapping Tara Calishain, 2006-12-07

How many times have you run a Google search that resulted in thousands of results? With over 8 billion pages online and more posted every day, the Web more than likely contains the information you're looking for if only you could find it. In Information Trapping, Real Time Research on the Web, Internet search engine expert Tara Calishain makes researching more efficient and rewarding for anyone for whom the Web is an indispensable tool: academics, journalists, scientists and professionals as well as bloggers, genealogists and hobbyists. She does so by teaching the latest techniques for building automated information gathering systems. As an alternative to the typical one time search for information, Tara demonstrates how readers can use RSS feeds, page monitoring tools and other software to set up information streams of many different data types from text to multimedia to conversations for capture and review.
