Decker, 2016-03-01 Can blockbuster films be socially relevant or are they just escapist diversions to entertain the masses and enrich the studios Not every successful film contains thoughtful commentary but some that are marketed as pure entertainment do seriously engage social issues Popular science fiction films of the late 1970s and early 1980s such as George Lucas Star Wars trilogy Ridley Scott's Alien and Aliens and James Cameron's Terminator films present a critique of our engagement with technology in a way that resonates with 1960s counterculture As challengers of the status quo's technological underpinnings Luke Skywalker Ellen Ripley and Sarah Connor echo the once popular social criticism of philosopher Herbert Marcuse and speak directly to the concerns of people living in a technologically complex society The films of Lucas Scott and Cameron made money but also made us think about the world we live in

Darwinian Natural Right Larry Arnhart, 1998-04-02 This book shows how Darwinian biology supports an Aristotelian view of ethics as rooted in human nature Defending a conception of Darwinian natural right based on the claim that the good is the desirable the author argues that there are at least twenty natural desires that are universal to all human societies because they are based in human biology The satisfaction of these natural desires constitutes a universal standard for judging social practice as either fulfilling or frustrating human nature although prudence is required in judging what is best for particular circumstances The author studies the familial bonding of parents and children and the conjugal bonding of men and women as illustrating social behavior that conforms to Darwinian natural right He also studies slavery and psychopathy as illustrating social behavior that contradicts Darwinian natural right He argues as well that the natural moral sense does not require religious belief although such belief can sometimes reinforce the dictates of nature
