1 (a) Support Dr. Tate's assertion that "the leaf litter is critical to the survival of local species of forest plants." Include in your discussion the roles of leaf litter in a deciduous forest ecosystem. - CORRECT ANSWER-provides shelter for seedlings

1 (b) Describe THREE abiotic changes that would be likely to result if the exotic worms consumed all the leaf litter in a single year. - CORRECT ANSWER-1. erosion of soil would increase

2. changes in soil temperature

3. loss of soil coverage

1 (c) explain how the change could set the stage for the takeover of Japanese stilt grass or other exotic species. - CORRECT ANSWER-"the exotic species are often more tolerant than native species of drier soils, and therefore, out-compete native species"

1 (d) Design a controlled experiment to determine whether the worms, in fact, do change the forest ecosystem. Identify the environmental factor you will measure, and include the specific hypothesis you will test and the data you will collect. - CORRECT ANSWER-

The Alaskan National Wildlife Refuge (ANWR) on Alaska's North Slope is frequently in the news because petroleum geologists estimate that there are billions of barrels of economically recoverable oil beneath the surface of its frozen tundra. According to a 1998 United States Geological Survey (USGS) estimate, ANWR could contain up to 10 billion barrels of technically recoverable oil. Oil company officials advocate opening the refuge to oil exploration and the subsequent development of its petroleum resources. Environmentalists argue that oil exploration and development will damage this fragile ecosystem and urge Congress to protect ANWR by designating it as a wilderness area. - CORRECT ANSWER-question 2

Number without language: comparative psychology and the evolution of numerical cognition Christian Agrillo, Michael Beran, 2013-07-09 Despite once being reserved as perhaps a unique human ability and one reliant on language comparative and developmental research has shown that numerical abilities predate verbal language Human infants and several non human species have been shown to represent numerical information in varied contexts and the capacity to discriminate both small and large numerosities has been reported in mammals birds amphibians and fish The similar performances often observed across such diverse species have led to the hypothesis that there may be shared core systems underlying number abilities of non human species and human non verbal numerical abilities Thus animal models could provide useful insight on our comprehension of numerical cognition and in particular the evolution of non verbal numerical abilities Several aspects need be clarified For instance the ontogeny of numerical competence in animals has been rarely investigated It is unclear whether all species can represent numerical information or on the contrary use non numerical continuous quantities that co vary with number such as cumulative surface area density and space In addition the existence of a specific mechanism to process small numbers
