

Which Car Brands Make the Best Vehicles?

We ranked 32 brands based on the Overall Scores of their models, which include road tests, reliability, satisfaction, and safety

By Jeff S. Bortolin and Anna Lam
February 16, 2022

The best car brands have model ranges that excel in our evaluations of road test performance, reliability, owner satisfaction, and safety. They earn the highest Overall Scores based on the average of our all-around tested models.

BMW, Subaru, Volvo, and Honda consistently lead in the rankings by delivering a broad range of cars that have excellent road test performance, reliability, and owner satisfaction. They also score the highest for the number of models that have excellent performance in our all-around tested models.

Subaru leads the luxury segment in this year, with a 9.0 overall score. It's followed by Volvo, which has the highest number of models in the luxury segment. Volvo's models also have excellent performance in our all-around tested models. Subaru's models also have excellent performance in our all-around tested models.

The rankings can be helpful in choosing a car by looking at the brands that score the highest and lowest. The brands that score the lowest are those that have the most problems in our road tests and owner satisfaction. These cars will often have more problems in our all-around tested models, and buyers should be aware.

To be included in the brand ranking, a car must have earned at least two overall scores from a brand. The, Acura, Infiniti, Lexus, and Volvo were not included in our rankings this year for the first time.

How We Rank the Car Brands

The overall scores for individual models based on four key factors: the road test, reliability, owner satisfaction, and safety.

For the road test scores, we use subjective ratings from 10 experts and evaluations.

Reliability ratings are based on problems reported by owners in 12 months across all 100,000 miles driven.

Owner satisfaction predictions are based on whether 100,000 miles driven and we need the car to be the same, better, or worse.

Safety ratings are based on whether 100,000 miles driven and we need the car to be the same, better, or worse.

Overall scores are based on the average of the four scores. A car must have earned the top 10 percent of reliability, owner satisfaction, and safety to be included.
