Space Warfare Nordin Yusof,1999 US Presidents and the Militarization of Space, 1946-1967 Sean N.

Kalic,2012-05-02 In the clash of ideologies represented by the Cold War even the heavens were not immune to militarization Satellites and space programs became critical elements among the national security objectives of both the United States and the Soviet Union According to US Presidents and the Militarization of Space 1946 1967 three American presidents in succession shared a fundamental objective of preserving space as a weapons free frontier for the benefit of all humanity Between 1953 and 1967 Presidents Eisenhower Kennedy and Johnson all saw nonaggressive military satellite development as well as the civilian space program as means to favorably shape the international community s opinion of the scientific technological and military capabilities of the United States Sean N Kalic s reinterpretation of the development of US space policy based on documents declassified in the past decade demonstrates that a single vision for the appropriate uses of space characterized American strategies across parties and administrations during this period Significantly Kalic s findings contradict the popular opinion that the United States sought to weaponize space and calls into question the traditional interpretation of the space race as a simple action reaction paradigm Indeed beyond serving as a symbol and ambassador of US technological capability its satellite program provided the United States with advanced nonaggressive military intelligence gathering platforms that proved critical in assessing the strategic nuclear balance between the United States and the Soviet Union It also aided the three administrations in countering the Soviet Union s increasing international prestige after its series of space firsts beginning with the launch of Sputnik in 1957 Beyond Horizons David N. Spires,1997

Sabre Rattling in Space Ahmad Khan,Eligar Sadeh,2024-12-13 This book offers historical and theoretical context of the path followed by States from space militarization to weaponization and deconstructs traditional security paradigm myths to prove that a paradigm shift has been brought because of deadly space weapons developed by major space powers It reconciles that the strategic distrust between two leading space competitors U S and China has prompted them to pursue counter space capabilities The ripple effect of this troubling relation in space is not limited at the global level but has witnessed a trickledown effect on regional security In relation to this the book offers details of the Indian space program including its military space ambitions and provides information about Pakistan s objectives in space It offers an overview of challenges to international space governance and how the structural flaws help states to aggressively follow a path toward space weaponization Additionally it discusses the UN negotiating arms control measures in space and the politics of states not to negotiate prevention of an arms race in outer space The book is a useful contribution to space security from both traditional and contemporary approaches covering history theory and application It provides an academic as well as practical approach carrying appeal for professionals experts opinion makers industry academics teachers policy makers politicians and masses from other walks of life who are interests in space security
