Prepositioning Antibiotics for Anthrax Institute of Medicine,Board on Health Sciences Policy,Committee on Prepositioned Medical Countermeasures for the Public,2012-02-26 If terrorists released Bacillus anthracis over a large city hundreds of thousands of people could be at risk of the deadly disease anthrax caused by the B anthracis spores unless they had rapid access to antibiotic medical countermeasures MCM Although plans for rapidly delivering MCM to a large number of people following an anthrax attack have been greatly enhanced during the last decade many public health authorities and policy experts fear that the nation's current systems and plans are insufficient to respond to the most challenging scenarios such as a very large scale anthrax attack. The U.S. Department of Health and Human Services Office of the Assistant Secretary for Preparedness and Response commissioned the Institute of Medicine to examine the potential uses, benefits, and disadvantages of strategies for repositioning antibiotics. This involves storing antibiotics close to or in the possession of the people who would need rapid access to them should an attack occur. Prepositioning Antibiotics for Anthrax reviews the scientific evidence on the time window in which antibiotics successfully prevent anthrax and the implications for decision making about prepositioning. It describes potential prepositioning strategies and develops a framework to assist state, local, and tribal public health authorities in determining whether prepositioning strategies would be beneficial for their communities. However, based on an analysis of the likely health benefits, health risks, and relative costs of the different prepositioning strategies, the book also develops findings and recommendations to provide jurisdictions with some practical insights as to the circumstances in which different prepositioning strategies may be beneficial. Finally, the book identifies federal and national level actions that would facilitate the evaluation and development of prepositioning strategies. Recognizing that communities across the nation have differing needs and capabilities, the findings presented in this report are intended to assist public health officials in considering the benefits, costs, and trade-offs involved in developing alternative prepositioning strategies appropriate to their particular communities.

Biotech Animals in Research Mickey Gjerris, Anna Kornum, Helena Röcklinsberg, Dorte Bratbo Sørensen, 2023-12-06. This book explores central aspects of genetic modification of animals for scientific purposes in the context of technological possibilities, regulatory issues in different regions, animal welfare implications, and wider ethical issues exemplified through current theories and frameworks. This discussion of lab animals produced through modern biotechnologies becomes increasingly pressing as CRISPR-Cas9 technology advances rapidly, challenging legal and ethical frameworks all over the world. Such animals are now affordable and readily available to almost every branch of scientific research. This not only raises enormous potential for creating tailored models for human diseases but also rubs up against the traditional guiding principles, the 3Rs, for the humane use of animals for scientific experiments and raises wider ethical issues around death, integrity, and naturalness. In this book, expert authors from diverse backgrounds in laboratory animal care, animal research technology, and animal rights explore a range of topics from the science behind biotech research animals and the regulation of their use to utilitarian animal rights, virtue ethics, and ethics of care and critical animal studies perspectives on the use of these technologies. Whatever your background or role in animal research, this book will challenge and stimulate deeper consideration of the benefits, disadvantages, and ethical consequences of the use of biotechnology in the animal laboratory.

Community Health Nursing Linda L. Jarvis, 1981 Annual Report - Auditor of State Ohio. Auditor of State, 1891 Mergent International News Reports, 2008-05 Regional Overview of Food Security and Nutrition in the Near East and North Africa 2019 Food and Agriculture Organization of the United Nations, World Food Programme, International Fund for Agriculture Development, World Health Organization, United Nations International Children's Emergency Fund, 2020-05-01 The past few decades have seen dramatic improvements in the region in access to food reduction in stunting rates in premature death and disability caused by communicable maternal neonatal and nutritional diseases However the gains in the fight against hunger and malnutrition have reversed in the wake of conflicts and violence that have spread in many parts of the region in the last decade Today nearly 55 million people in the Arab States 13.2 percent of the population are hungry and the situation is particularly worrying in countries affected by conflicts and violence Iraq Libya Somalia Syria Sudan and Yemen Displacements and forced migration are widespread in the region especially among the growing youth population segment Many countries carry a double burden of malnutrition including overweight and obesity and undernutrition A high or very high prevalence of stunting in children under the age of five persists in nearly half of the Arab States while anaemia is a severe public health issue in certain countries The trends of overweight and obesity continue to worsen for children and adults Beyond these numbers the report explores food systems in the Arab States and the policies that support them It also explores how the latter have contributed to poor nutritional outcomes by failing to make safe and diversified healthy diets available to all While there has been significant progress in policies designed to reduce caloric deficiencies in the population the policy reaction to address existing malnutrition problems particularly in relation to overweight and obesity

Marine Environmental Governance Erika Techera, 2013-03 Marine Environmental Governance From International Law to Local Practice considers the relationship between international environmental law and community based management of marine areas Focusing on small island states in which indigenous populations have to a large extent continued to maintain traditional lifestyles this book takes up the question of how indigenous customary law and state based legislation can be reconciled in the implementation of international environmental law Including a range of case studies as well as detailed comparative analysis it pursues an interdisciplinary approach to legal pluralism in practice that will be of considerable interest to environmental lawyers legal anthropologists conservation biologists and those working in the area of community based conservation
