

Grade Six

Focus on Earth Sciences

The science curriculum in grade six emphasizes the study of earth sciences. Students at this age are increasing their awareness of the environment and are ready to learn more. The standards in grade six present many of the foundations of geology and geophysics, including plate tectonics and earth structure, topography, and energy. Plate tectonics is a unifying geologic theory that explains the formation of major features of Earth's surface and important geologic events. Although most scientists today consider Alfred Wegener to be the pioneer of the modern

Today, geologists know that plate tectonic processes are responsible for most of the major features of Earth's crust (including continental configuration, mountains, island arcs, and ocean floor topography) and are an important contributor to the recycling of material in the rock cycle. Driven by the flow of heat and material within Earth, these processes cause stresses in Earth's crust that are released through earthquakes and volcanic activity. Mountain building counters the constant destructive effects of weathering and erosion that eventually wear down Earth's surface features.

- a. Students know evidence of plate tectonics is derived from the fit of the continents; the location of earthquakes, volcanoes, and midocean ridges; and the distribution of fossils, rock types, and ancient climatic zones.

Evidence of past plate tectonic movement is recorded in Earth's crustal rocks, in the topography of the continents, and in the topography and age of the ocean floor. Continental edges reflect that they were once part of a single large supercontinent that Wegener named Pangaea. Upon the breakup of this supercontinent, the
