Jenny Donovan, 2013-04-22 Designing to Heal explores what happens to communities that have suffered disasters either natural or man made and what planners and urban designers can do to give the affected communities the best possible chance of recovery It examines the relationship that people have with their surroundings and the profound disruption to people's lives that can occur when that relationship is violently changed when the familiar settings for their lives are destroyed and family friends and neighbours are displaced incapacitated or killed The book offers a model of the healing process outlining the emotional journey that people go on as they struggle to rebuild their lives It outlines the characteristics of the built environment that may facilitate people to travel as smoothly as possible down this road to recovery and suggests elements of the design process that can help achieve this goal Designing to Heal highlights the importance of thinking about urban design as a way of nurturing hope and creating the optimal conditions to achieve social objectives FIA Recording

New Challenges for Maturing Democracies in Korea and Taiwan Larry Diamond, Gi-Wook Shin, 2014-01-29
 New Challenges for Maturing Democracies in Korea and Taiwan takes a creative and comparative view of the new challenges and dynamics confronting these maturing democracies. Numerous works deal with political change in the two societies individually but few adopt a comparative approach and most focus mainly on the emergence of democracy or the politics of the democratization processes. This book utilizing a broad interdisciplinary approach pays careful attention to post democratization phenomena and the key issues that arise in maturing democracies. What emerges is a picture of two evolving democracies now secure but still imperfect and at times disappointing to their citizens a common feature and challenge of democratic maturation. The book demonstrates that it will fall to the elected political leaders of these two countries to rise above narrow and immediate party interests to mobilize consensus and craft policies that will guide the structural adaptation and reinvigoration of the society and economy in an era that clearly presents for both countries not only steep challenges but also new opportunities.
