GOAL: Perfect aim: Test 3 variables by changing the numbers or objects:

1. Play with the simulation for 5 to 10 minutes; observe and then start the activity. Find the combination of variables that hits the center of the target.
2. Then, decide the 3 variables you will focus on (see FIGURE-1). Write them down and draw a hypothesis about how this variable will affect or not the distance travelled (aim). Select diameter, mass, initial speed in the direction it is fired, angle, object or air resistance.
3. Change the variable one by one and record what happened. Complete the table below by listing what happened as you changed the variable by increasing or decreasing it; show results in values/ numbers.
4. Draw a conclusion in words and decide if the horizontal distance travelled is independent or dependent on the variable you changed.
