Abstract: The purpose of this study was to determine the effect of a 12-week training program on the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women. The program consisted of three sessions per week, each lasting 45 minutes. The first session was a warm-up, the second was a cardiovascular workout, and the third was a strength training session. The results showed that the women who participated in the program experienced significant improvements in their physical and psychological health. Specifically, they showed a significant increase in their maximum heart rate, a significant decrease in their resting heart rate, and a significant increase in their maximum oxygen consumption. Additionally, they showed a significant decrease in their anxiety levels and a significant increase in their self-esteem. These findings suggest that a 12-week training program can have a positive effect on the physical and psychological health of sedentary, middle-aged women.
