It is a well-known fact that the function $f(x) = x^2$ is not a linear function. However, it is a quadratic function. This is because the function satisfies the property of a quadratic function, which is that the second derivative of the function is a constant. In this case, the second derivative of $f(x) = x^2$ is $f''(x) = 2$, which is a constant. Therefore, $f(x) = x^2$ is a quadratic function.
